Lewis Sets Deadline for Mine Shutdown

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 26—John L. Lewis announced today that his 400,000 miners will stop work this week-end unless a new contract is perfected with bituminous operators before then.

Lewis rejected the operators reply to his demands as "entirely unsatisfactory" and there was no indication that an agreement could be reached before midnight Sunday, when the present contract expires.

The operators' proposals included a wage increase of about 18½ cents an hour and a joint union-industry survey of the possibility of setting up a "reasonable" fund to take care of victims of mine accidents.

Lewis told reporters at a news conference that the United Mine Workers will "stay home with their families" next week. He said "there will be no miners' blood spilled" next week and that lives will be saved and injuries averted by the work stoppage.

"The mine workers will not trespass upon the property of the coal companies until they have a contract," he declared.

Says It's Not Strike

"You'll note," he said at another point, "that we're not calling a strike."

Declaring the miners "have been defrauded out of vast sums of money" by extending wartime contracts on a retroactive basis, Lewis made it plain that this time "there will be no extension of the existing contract on any basis."

The operators' proposals comprised six offers which they said were made after "ineffectual efforts to get the actual negotiations to a consideration of basic issues."

The industry offered to raise miners' pay in line with the wage increases already worked out in steel, oil and automobile industries—or about 18½ cents an hour.

In addition, they proposed a joint study by the United Mine Workers and the industry of plans to create a fund to care for hardships resulting from mine accidents— a direct answer to Lewis' demand for a health and welfare fund.

Final Proposal

The final proposal suggested that the union pay $1 a man per day to the operators for each day of a strike in violation of contract. In return, the operators would agree to pay damages at the rate of $1 a man per day to the union affected for each day of a lockout.

Lewis said the action is being taken "at a time when it will be

A letter received by the family Monday from the office of the secretary of war and bearing the signature of Edward F. Witsell, adjutant general, confirmed a telegram received from the department last Friday, notifying them of the young airman's death.

The letter stated that "according to the statements of returned crew members and of Japanese records available since the surrender of Japan," Lt. Houghton was seriously burned when he bailed out of his airplane over Tokyo on April 2, 1945. He was captured by the Japanese, the letter continued, and confined in a cell until April 9 when he was removed to a hospital in Tokyo where he died on April 11 of his injuries.

The city will not be liable for damages caused by failure to answer a call, or failure to extinguish a fire for any cause. Ed O. Uncapher, safety-service director, signed the contract for the city following its approval by city council March 11.

Use of city fire equipment for Marion township runs has been under discussion for several weeks by both city and township officials, and although the city has been answering some township calls in the past there was no legal basis to afford the city protection in case of accidents to individuals or equipment.

The measure was passed by trustees at their regular meeting. Other business discussed was routine, Chairman McCurdy said.

MRS. GEBHARDT DIES AT CITY HOSPITAL

A native of Marion, Mrs. Gebhardt was the daughter of Jeremiah Darmody and Ellen Stuart Darmody both of whom were born in Tipperary, Ireland. Her marriage to Mr. Gebhardt, local manufacturer, took place here in 1903. His death occurred in 1930.

The major part of Mrs. Gebhardt's life was spent in the educational field where she was an outstanding figure in the advancement of her chosen profession. Educated in the Marion public schools, she later attended Cedar Grove academy in Cincinnati and the University of Michigan, and was for many years a teacher in the schools here. STALIN SAYS IRAN QUESTION ALL SETTLED

Leader Tells United Press Soviet View; Withdrawal of Troops Continues.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 26—Red army troops continued to withdraw from Iran today according to an agreement with Premier Qavam, and Prime Minister Stalin asserted that the question of Soviet troops in that country has been settled.

Izvestia published a reply from Stalin to a telegram sent by Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press in which Baillie requested comment on a Winston Churchill interview and the international situation.

Thanking Baillie for his telegram Stalin said Churchill's argument cannot be regarded as "convincing" and added that the question of withdrawing troops from Iran has been settled. The former British prime minister had called for rapid action by the security council of the United Nations on Iran.

A Tass dispatch from Tehran said the Tehran radio had declared in connection with the Red army withdrawal that "'national circles receive this cheerful news as a big success for the policy of his excellency, Qavam. They hope that under his leadership as respected head of the government, the Iranian people will attain their national desires."

Telegrams Broadcast

The Moscow radio broadcast the texts of the telegrams exchanged by Baillie and Stalin. This was the version of the Baillie telegram as recorded by the Soviet Monitor in London:

"Generalissimo Stalin:

"I would like to draw your attention to the declaration by Mr. Winston Churchill made to the United Press agency for transmission to journals and radio corporations of the whole world.

"On this occasion I want to renew my proposals that you make a declaration to the United Press agency on the subject of the international situation.

"If you wish to reply to Churchill's argument in favor of the necessity for rapid action by the security council of the UNO on the question of Iran, the United Press agency will be happy to transmit to the world your opinions.

"If you have other questions concerning Iran or international peace and security I beg of you to make use of the possibilities which we place at your disposal with our best wishes.

"Signed Hugh Baillie, New York, March 22, 1946." (The United Press in New York said Baillie's telegram was sent late on March 21 and must have reached Moscow on March 22.)

Stalin's Reply

Stalin's answer as broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet Monitor in London:

"Mr. Hugh Baillie,

"President of the United Press Agency:

"I thank you for your amiable proposition. I should not find Churchill's arguments convincing.

"Inasmuch as the question of the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Iran is concerned, as is known this question has already been solved in a positive means by agreement between the Soviet government and th government of Iran.

"Denatured" Atomic Energy May Speed End of Secrecy

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 26—An easier road toward worldwide sharing of atomic secrets appeared opening up today with reports that scientists have discovered how to render plutonium useless for bomb-making.

This "denaturing" process assertedly would not interfere with the release of atomic power for industrial purposes.

These reports were carried to the senate's special atomic committee yesterday by Under Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Members said he presented a study which urged an international licensing system to control raw materials and the production of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

But the recommendations were quickly overshadowed by statements three senators credited to Acheson that scientists have learned how to "denature" both plutonium and U-235. These are the substances which furnish the atoms that are split to release vast power.

One senator, who declined to be quoted by name, said the problem of sharing atomic energy secrets with the rest of the world may be "very much simplified" if the process is proved in practical operations.

Would Ease Fears

He pointed out that if a way can be found to control tightly the world's supply of fissionable material and if it can be treated to make it useless for explosive purposes, then there need be little fear of the secret manufacture of A-bombs.

But he added that there still is a long way to go—even if the element can be so "poisoned"—to make certain that it could not be manufactured in the original form in which it was used in the Nagasaki bomb. The understanding of all concerned, he said, is that once the plutonium is "denatured," it is extremely difficult to return to its original qualities.

There was a feeling among senators, also, that the reported denaturing discovery may open the way for commercial use of atomic energy.

Scientist Agrees

Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the government's bureau of standards and scientific adviser to the atomic committee, acknowledged that this was the "implication" of the discovery.

Condon said ways have been found to harness nuclear fission for industrial purposes. But the danger has been, he added, that a

Day's Total High In Vote Registrations

A record for transfers and registrations in the present primary period was set at the board of elections office yesterday, according to Mrs. Nora Fetter, clerk of the board.

Thirteen transfers and 22 registrations were made, boosting to 16,130 the total registrations to date. The election board office was busy again today with persons seeking information concerning their voting status. There still are over 1,800 persons who must register before the April 8 deadline to be eligible to vote in the May primaries.

LAUSCHE ASKS POLL ON RETURN-TO-WORK

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 26—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today appealed to CIO-United Steelworkers officials in Canton to poll members of Local 1590 again on a return-to-work proposal of the Union Metal Manufacturing Co.

The company has offered to increase wages 10 cents an hour immediately and add another 8½ cents on April 4.

A strike has been in progress since Jan. 21. Approximately 450 men are affected.

The telegram was addressed to Homer Donward, field representative of the CIO-USA with copies to Thomas J. Salby, president of Local 1590; William Stauffer, local treasurer, and I. W. Abel, district director of the union.

The governor said although he was informed that 275 of the union members had signed a petition indicating their willingness to accept the proposal, President Salby at a union meeting said a standing vote indicated that a

STATE POLICE ENTER STRIKE

Crowd at Pittsburgh Westinghouse Plant Dispersed by Mounted Troopers.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, March 26—Mounted state police today cleared a street and sidewalks in front of Westinghouse Electric Corporation's struck East Pittsburgh works where an angry crowd earlier booed and jostled supervisory workers entering the plant.

As the policemen rode up on sidewalks, waving long night sticks, the crowd scattered from in front of the horses but closed in behind the policemen, shouting taunts while a union public address system blared:

"Solidarity forever."

There was no violence and no one was injured.

The police, part of a force estimated in excess of 200 were assigned to clear Braddock avenue which passes the plant's main entrance. The horsemen were followed by an additional force of police on foot.

The state police detail was headed by Lieut. Col. Jacob C. Mauk, who conferred on the scene with Allegheny county sheriff Walter C. Monaghan. Monaghan requested intervention of the state police in maintaining order among the crowd.

Mounted police numbered about two dozen and the dispersed crowd was estimated at 400.

After Braddock avenue was cleared, the mounted police detail reined up in formation on Cable avenue, a steep intersecting street overlooking the main gates while police on foot formed on either side of Braddock avenue. Picket lines continued and normal foot traffic past the plant was allowed

UNO

"I propose that the case not be placed on the agenda."

Byrnes said that if an agreement had been reached Russia should have filed a statement of this before the council.

"The Iranian government has not withdrawn its complaint," he said.

"All that is now contemplated," Byrnes argued, "is the adoption of an agenda which would give to the Iranian government an opportunity to present its case. Surely the United Nations can not deny to any government the opportunity to present the facts."

Not Fit for UNO

Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko told the council that Iran's letter of appeal for council help contained subject matter not "fit to be placed on the agenda" of the council.

Gromyko's argument appeared directed at having the council pass over the Soviet-Iranian controversy for the present.

He spoke after Council President Quo Tai Chi of China had swept aside as unready for action technical items on the agenda of today's council session, second in America, and plunged the peace-enforcement agency into discussion of the tangled Iranian issue.

British To Press Russian Envoy for "Real" Iran Facts

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 26—A British foreign office spokesman said today Sir Alexander Cadogan had been instructed to ask Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union to explain "the real facts" of the Russian evacuation of Iron.

Sir Alexander and Gromyko are the nation's chief delegates to the New York meeting of the United Nation's security council.

The spokesmen sold messages were being exchanged "all the time" between Sir Alexander and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Sir Alexander also has three other questions on his list, including a request for a Russian report on negotiations leading up to the announcement of the Russian evacuation and details of the terms to which Iranain Premier Ahmed Qavam agreed.

Want to Know Why

Another British question posed to Moscow more than three weeks ago and still unanswered is a request for an explanation why Russia kept troops in Iran beyond the March 2 deadline for the withdrawal of soldiers under the British-Russian-Iranian treaty.

Two members of Britain's parliament undertook today a trip by plane to the Middle East to make an unofficial inspection of Iran and to verify reports from Moscow and Tehran that Red army troops were withdrawing from that country.

The two—Brigadier A. H. Head, Conservative, and Michael Foot, Labor party member and writer for the Daily Herald—will be gone for two or three weeks.

Foreign Undersecretary Hector McNeil said "necessary arrangements" had been made for the visit and added that he did not believe any "unreasonable barriers would be encountered.

Says It's Solved

Prime Minister Stalin asserted today that so far as the Soviet Union is concerned, the question of the withdrawal of Red army troops "has already been solved" by an agreement between Russia and Iran.

Stalin's statement was made in answer to a cablegram sent from New York by Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press, who asked the prime minister whether he wished to "reply to Churchill's argument in favor of the necessity for rapid action by the security council of the United Nations Organization on the question of Iran."

Stalin's reply, as broadcast by the Moscow radio, read:

"I thank you for your amiable proposition. I should not find Churchill's arguments convincing.

"Inasmuch as the question of the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Iran is concerned, as is known this question has already been solved in a positive means by agreement between the Soviet government and the government of Iran."

Meanwhile, a dispatch from Tehran quoted Prince Firouz, minister of state and propaganda, as saying that the Russian withdrawal began last Sunday night and was continuing.

Additional light on the Iranian situation was expected to be cast shortly by a report from the British ambassador to that country.

A British foreign office spokesman said the ambassador had been requested to submit a full report, and that the reply probably would include a statement on the status of oil concessions.

Prime Minister Attlee rejected in the house of commons yesterday a suggestion that he arrange to have a series of "frank talks with Stalin." Attlee said he did not consider such a move "advisable."

REFORMATORY HEAD ADDRESSES LIONS

Explains Operation of State Institution at Marysville.

Guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Lions club Monday noon at Hotel Harding was Mrs. Marguerite Reiley, superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women at Marysville. She gave a brief history of her own life and experiences and told of different phases of her life and work at the reformatory.

Formerly of Cleveland Mrs. Reiley took over her duties at the reformatory ten years ago. She explained that with about 300 in the institution, they are operating on a little more than a half staff. In stating that the aftermath of juvenile delinquency is the reason for the greater part of the girls being in the school, she explained that the girls of today are not getting proper supervision from the families.

Mrs. Reiley also made a statement that a great number of the parents are the main cause for their children becoming juvenile delinquents and that the parents, themselves, should be punished.

Mrs. Reiley stated, that in her opinion, the answer to checking juvenile delinquency is to conduct a good course of athletics in the cities. The school building and property should be opened to the public as a community center where school pupils could conduct their activities. Although the school officials object to this because of the wear on the buildings, she said that it should be done, and when the buildings and facilities wear out, new ones should be built.

Announcement was made of a Lion board meeting to be held next Monday night at 8 p. m. at Hotel Harding.

Four new members were given a formal initiation. They are John Pickerel, Willard Henney, Robert Craven and Dr. J. J. Brown, all of Marion. A visiting Lion member was Harley Hartman from Canal Winchester. Other guests included Sherman Haldeman, John Watters and Harold McAdow Jr., all of Marion, and Charles Frey of Columbus.

Von Ribbentrop Denies Crimes

Takes Responsibility for Acts as Minister But Claims Innocence.

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, March 26 — Joachim Von Ribbentrop told the international military tribunal today he accepted full responsibility for his acts as foreign minister of Germany, but was pleading innocent on all counts of the war crimes indictment.

The gaunt silver-haired Nazi followed the example of Hermann Goering and Rudolf Hess in opening his personal defense.

The court ruled out defense evidence intended to prove that the Versailles treaty was unjust and was signed by Germany "under duress." Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, British prosecutor, said the defense claim was "completely remote, irrelevant and beyond the terms of the tribunal's charter."

Defense attorneys had launched a five-point attack upon the treaty and the prosecution's charge that the Nazis conspired to break the treaty with the aim of waging aggressive war.

Touches Off Fuss

Dr. Alfred Seidl, counsel for Rudolf Hess, touched off a long, involved wrangle when he sought to introduce excerpts from speeches and writings of scores of foreign statesmen, economists and journalists which he contended showed that Germany had justification and considerable support abroad for violating the treaty.

With prosecutors interjecting frequent counter arguments, counsel for Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Hjalmar Schacht supported Seidl. The defense made these allegations:

1—That Germany signed the Versailles treaty "under duress."

2—That the treaty was made obsolete by the British-German naval agreement of 1935.

3—That the treaty was not in accord with President Wilson's 14 points.

4—That failure of other signatory powers to fulfill the treaty abrogated it.

5—That the German abrogation was "in accord with views widely held even in some victor countries."

In support of these arguments Seidl sought to introduce as evidence quotations from decades-old utterances of such figures as the late Senator Borah (R-Ida), Lord Keynes, the late David Lloyd George, Robert Lansing, John Foster Dulles and Gustav Cassel, Swedish journalist.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX DEADLINE NEAR

Auditor's Office Open Extra Hours in Final Week.

If personal property taxpayers are to meet the March 30 deadline, nearly 300 a day must file their returns at the auditor's office, County Auditor Harry V. Mounts reported today.

Returns now filed total 1,803, which leaves approximately 1,500 yet to file by Saturday.

This week the auditor's office is open through the noon hour and on Saturday will be open until 4 p. m. Persons may file returns by mail, Auditor Mounts pointed out, and may include their payment with their return.

Farmers must pay personal property tax on livestock, hay and grains, regardless of the purposes for which they are used. Stocks and bonds and other investments bearing interest also are subject to tax, including deposits in financial institutions outside Ohio.

UAW WEIGHS AID TO HOLDOUT STRIKERS

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, March 26—The CIO-United Auto Workers convention, temporarily desisting from its hot political battle, deliberated today a proposal to assess the union's membership in support of remaining General Motors strikers.

The convention served notice on General Motors of "united and determined" support of the comparativeiy new strikers whose piece work dispute is holding up a full return to work of 175,000 men and ordered a committee to examine the assessment proposal.

With the GM strike on the floor, the convention paused from its race down the home stretch of the political fight.

Tomorrow 2,000 delegates vote on whether to keep R. J. Thomas as president or to replace him with Walter Reuther.

More fireworks were expected today on the convention floor, where yesterday's session was thrown into an uproar by a sudden but futile attempt on the part of the Reuther supporters to force a debate between the two candidates.

Thomas issued a folder which made a further assault on Reuther's leadership of the General Motors strike. Thomas praised the "guts" of the strikers but said Reuther showed "unscrupulous irresponsibility." He said Reuther's wage demand on General Motors threw a "bombshell" into the whole CIO postwar strategy, which, he added, was to "apply the pressure" through steel rather than the auto industry.

Reuther, UAW vice president, addressing a rally last night, replied that Thomas lacked courage because he refused a challenge to a debate with him.

Reuther then accused his opponents of "mud-slinging and character assassination," said he didn't want to be president if he had to resort to such tactics, and devoted most of his speech to outlining a program for the union.

In so doing, he got in a resounding whack at AFL leaders, declaring that "I think some day we're going to free the AFL rank and file from those bureaucrats."

The voting for officers tomorrow will be done by a complicated system. Some delegates cast only one vote, and some cast as many as eight votes, depending on the size of their local unions. In all, the approximately 2,000 delegates will cast nearly 9,000 votes.

TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Two accidents involving parked cars were reported to police yesterday. Mrs. Mary E. Frost of 625 Davids street told police that while she was parked on East Center street near High street Monday at 10:30 a. m., her car was bumped twice by a car driven by Ford Ramsey, 68, of 365 Jefferson street, who was attempting to park in a space behind her car. C. W. Egnor, 25, of near Marion hooked fenders with a parked car belonging to Herbert S. Moore of Columbus when he turned into a drive on West Center street near the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, police said.

SELLS HOUSE LOTS TO VETS AT $1. Surrounded by grateful veterans of Canton, Mass., local manufacturer Tobe Deutschmann is embarrassed by their thanks for his offer of 18 house lots at a dollar each. Local zoning laws had been changed to permit use of the land for home-building. Tobe said that he had received more than 150 veterans' applications for the 18 lots.

PREPARES UNO TALK. Holding his glasses and showing deep concern, Hussein Ala, head of the Iranian delegation to the UNO, is pictured in New York as he prepared the speech that he was to deliver before the organization's Security Council on the Russo-Iranian dispute. formal authorization before even homes for veterans can be built. The National Housing Administration expects to give these homes the green light, however, under its emergency housing program for veterans.

To carry out the new order, CPA is setting up a regional construction office in each of the 71 cities where the Federal Housing Administration has offices.

Working with each of these CPA offices will be an advisory committee of prominent citizens, who Small said "will screen each project in the light of the peculiarities of the local situation."

Brothers Speak To Club on Astronomy

Harry and W. F. Ehrick, brothers who are chief engineer and plant manager, respectively, of the Huber Manufacturing Co., and are widely known as amateur astronomers, gave talks on astronomy and showed picture slides on that subject at the bi-monthly meeting of the Huber Foremen's club at Hotel Harding Monday night. D. A. Howard, president and general manager of the Huber Co. addressed the group briefly on current activities in the plant.

The dinner was attended by 43 members of the Foremen's club.

GM SET TO RECALL FIRST OF WORKERS

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 26—General Motors Corp., reversing an earlier stand, today prepared to call back the first of 175,000 production workers who have been idle since the CIO United Auto Workers strike began Nov. 21.

A corporation spokesman said "a great majority" of nearly 100 GM plants across the nation will issue the long-awaited back-to-work order.

His statement followed a telegram from GM Vice President Harry W. Anderson to Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO strike leader now in Atlantic City, N. J., at the union convention.

Anderson in the telegram quoted Reuther as saying all local grievances in 19 plants still on strike would be cleaned up "within a matter of a few days" and said, with this "assurance," the corporation is planning resumption of production.

A few days ago the corporation announced no plants would reopen until all UAW-CIO locals had voted a return to work.

A national agreement, calling for an 18½ cent hourly wage boost, was reached in Detroit March 13 on the 113th day of the record strike, but local issues remain unsolved in the plants still on strike.

PUBLISHER SAYS U. S. DISARMED TOO FAST

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 26—Norman Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times and a vice president of The Associated Press, asserted today that we have demobilized too rapidly in the Pacific and are now "alarmingly weak."

In the first of a series of articles deling with a recent five-week, 20,000-mile tour of the war areas, Chandler wrote, in part:

"Late last summer, while fighting still raged in the Pacific, we Americans were contentedly mouthing the two stock epigrams of World War II:

"Making war is expensive and wasteful—but the cost can't be helped.

"And, it is remarkable how well we overcame our initial disadvantage at Pearl Harbor to emerge as the most powerful military nation in the world.

"I can sorrowfully attest both the former truth and present hollowness of these statements.

"My firm conviction is that our demobilization of men from Pacific bases has been too rapid. Perhaps tragically so.

"We are alarmingly weak—militarily—along the line the United States must hold from Hawaii to the Asiatic contingent.

"The American public might as well forget about surpluses and wastages in the Pacific. They were regrettable but inevitable. A salvage program netting more than 10 per cent is improbable.

"Russia is the bugaboo in the orient. Its influence grows in Korea and China—which doubtless will become the testing grounds for world ideas.

"But I doubt that the seeds of imminent war have been sown in Asia. My guess is for peace, of a sort, for at least 25 years in the orient."

German Gang Kills GI, Injures Second Yank

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, March 26—Military police said today a gang of German youths had emasculated a 26-year-old American Army corporal and killed another U. S. soldier near the border of Russian-occupied Germany.

The corporal, whose name was withheld, is recovering in an Army hospital from loss of blood. American investigators said no arrest has been made in either case.

Military police said the corporal was waylaid in a dark, rubble-strewn alley in Kassel at 4 a. m. March 20. He said he had been drinking and was set upon by five or six German youths.

He was left bleeding in the alley, but "nally mustered enough strength to crawl to his host billet, from where he was taken to a hospital. The investigators said there was no evidence to support a theory that the attack was motivated by revenge, but the soldier was known to have been fraternizing with a German girl.

This Beats TNT As Auto Wrecker

By The Associated Press
PEKIN, Ill.—Illinois state police, investigating weird noises on a little-traveled road, found Douglas N. (Lucky) Lott experimenting with auxiliary rocket power for automobiles.

It was Lott's motive for the tests that left the highway guardians gaping. He explained he was seeking more spectacular means for wrecking automobiles.

"Lucky Lott?" puzzled the copper. "Oh, yes. You're the guy who used to tear up jalopies at the county fairs before the war. Haven't heard of you lately."

Lott explained he'd had other business lately. Specifically, he had been in the Army Air Force three years—14 months flying a Liberator bomber in Europe and a long time on submarine patrol.

Watching jet-powered fighter planes zip by his plodding bomber, Lott wasted little time pondering the possibilities of flights to the moon or non-stop globe girdling. There, he told himself, was something he could use in the auto-busting business.

"Take our double bus jump in which a car comes down the runway, goes up a ramp and sails over a couple of buses," Lott said. "Why, with rockets, we only need about 200 feet of runway instead of the previous 400. It makes possible feats heretofore entirely impossible.

"We've devised our own way of mounting the rockets, and wouldn't our competitors like to know how we do it. The rockets are mounted to the body of the car just above the rear fenders, and they're set off with an electric fuse attached to the horn button. They're just added independent power — no connection with the engine at all."

At night, Lott enthuses, it'll be sensational. He hopes to be ready for a premier showing at Denver's Fourth of July celebration.

There's one difficulty, Lott admits. He's having trouble finding obsolete automobiles to smash up. People are driving them instead of junking them.

Just one slice of bread thrown into the garbage each week by every American family is the same as throwing away 100 million loaves of bread a year.

Search for World's Worst Weather Ends in United States

By The Associated Press
DAYTON, O., March 26—"You don't have to look any further than the United States," says Capt. Robert Buck after two years' flying for the Army Air Forces on a special project which called for a search for the world's worst weather.

He landed a specially-equipped B-17, "Two Kind Words," at Wright Field near here yesterday, completing a 34,000-mile, 73-day round-the-world flight.

Aboard the plane was a group of nine experts—four from Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and five from the electronics division of the AAF's materiel command here—whose mission it was to test by electronics and high-speed camera recording devices the most severe electrical and static conditions which interfere with radio and flight apparatus.

"As far as I'm concerned," said Buck, TWA's 32-year-old chief pilot loaned to the Army for the project, "weather is weather the world over. Except for intensity, storm conditions are virtually the same no matter where they are encountered.

"All we have to do is lick them at home and we'll be able to lick them wherever we find them the problem now is to devise the methods and equipment to fly all-weather, year 'round."

The major problems, in Buck's opinion, are traffic control and air turbulence.

Buck, native of Westfield, N. J., who has been flying since he was 13, predicts "we'll have the 'all-weather' flying bug completely licked in two to five years."

Y-INDUS AND UNIVERSAL WIN WAY TO GOLD MEDAL FINALS

Cooler Quintet Surprises Morral Supply Team 35-30

Championship Game Scheduled for Saturday Night at Y. M. C. A. with Y-Indus Near Crown.

Y-Indus cagers smacked LaRue Merchants down 46 to 29 last night in the Y. M. C. A. Gold Medal tournament semi-finals to move one step closer to their second independent tournament championship. Only Universal Cooler which pulled a 35 to 30 surprise win over Morral Supply Co. stands in the way.

Both games last night were rough with more than 30 fouls called in each.

Star of Game

Y-Indus and LaRue put on a real battle the first half. With Dick Mulvaine, star center out of the lineup with the flu, Y-Indus had to overcome a decided height advantage of the LaRue team. Scoring was fairly even in the first quarter with LaRue enjoying a 12-11 first quarter lead. In the second quarter LaRue ran their lead to 18-13 before Y-Indus called time and changed their defense to a zone. The locals rallied at this point to take a 22-21 halftime lead. In the third quarter the locals built up a 5 point lead, and continued to turn on the heat the last quarter to win 46-29.

Max Roseberry led the Y-Indus scoring with 19 points while Ken Jones of LaRue played his usual fine game and led his team with 9 points. The win for the Y-Indus club was their 35th win in 38 starts.

Stage Close Battle

Morral and Universal Cooler put up a real battle on the upper floor. The lead changed hands many times in the first three quarters. Cooler got a 6-5 first quarter lead only to lose it as Morral built up a 14-11 lead at halftime. In the third quarter Cooler, led by Bussler really got hot, ramming in 18 points to build their lead to 29-18. In a fast fought fourth quarter Morral put on a rally, but were unable to make up their poor showing in the third canto. Petrie, O'Connor, and McAndrews all fouled out in the last quarter for the Cooler team.

LaRue will meet Morral Supply Co. at 7:30 Saturday night in a battle for third and fourth place medals. At 8:30 Y-Indus will meet Universal Cooler for first and second place. Both games will be played on the lower floor.

GIRLS' PLAYOFF TONIGHT

North Electric of Galion and Universal Cooler will battle for the championship in the play-off series in the feature game tonight at the "Y." This game will be at 9 p. m. with Harpster Ex-Highs and the "Y" girls playing the preliminary game to decide third place.

On his fifth, Lou shouted to the boss: "Mr. Harridge, I'm taking out that $50 fine you handed me three years ago in srimp tonight. Okay?" . . . Harridge beckoned a waiter and said: "Boy bring Mr. Boudreau two more shrimp cocktails. They're a little small." . . . So Lou manfully downed his sixth and seventh.

7 Golden Glovers To Seek Ohio AAU Crowns Tonight

Marion district Golden Gloves boxing champs, picked at the recent local tournament, will be battling tonight for state crowns against 40 fighters from four other cities at Memorial Hall in Columbus.

Columbus will send 16 fighters while Springfield, Dayton and Cincinnati will send eight each. Marion will send seven with the welterweight open. Willard Light, champion, is unable to go and runnerup Jack Draper's manager won't permit him to fight because of a bad cut on his ear, received in the championship bout here.

Eight championships are at stake with only one, the bantamweight, being defended. Sammy Patton of Columbus holds the title and is the only 1945 champ to reach this stage of the elimination.

Champions emerging from this state tournament will be sent to the national AAU tournament at Boston April 8 and 9. This state tournament is for the benefit of the Columbus Zoo.

LEGS BEGIN TO WORRY 38-YEAR-OLD DICKEY

Job In Navy Tells On Noted Yankee Catcher.

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26 — Bill Dickey's chances of catching a full quota of games for the Yankees this year, despite his 38 years and his long siege in the Navy, do not appear quite so bright as they did up to a week ago. He is having difficulty getting his legs in shape.

That is about the last thing anyone would have picked to happen to the man many regard as the greatest catcher of them all. Before the war Dicky's long legs were one of the wonders of the game.

He is learning now that the somewhat sedentary job he had in the Navy did his pins no good.

After doing his first four-inning stint behind the plate the other day he reported that he was one large ache and pain from the waist down.

In a game with Cleveland here yesterday Dickey hit himself on the toe with a batted ball during the pre-game practice, forcing him to withdraw, and that might prove an additional setback.

Council Authorizes Call For Bids on Clinton Street Sewer

Engineer Also Instructed To Determine Assessments Against Benefitted Property Owners.

Start of work on sewers in the Clinton street district moved closer last night when city council passed an emergency measure authorizing advertising for bids and a contract with the lowest and best bidder, and directing the city engineer to determine amounts of assessment of property owners benefitted by the project.

The legislation provides for construction of a storm and sanitary trunk sewer in Clinton street from West Center street south to Woodrow avenue and for an intercepting sewer from the west terminus of the Columbia street storm sewer to Clinton street.

All lots and lands bounding on the project will be assessed for part of the cost of the work; the remainder of the cost will be made up from the city sewer bond issue. Landowners will be assessed only for the cost of a sewer sufficient to handle their needs; cost of the remainder of the trunk sewer, which eventually will serve a large area, will be paid for by the city. Payments may be made within 30 days or may be made in 10 semi-annual installments, with interest on deferred payments.

Fire Dept. Contracts

Council also passed a resolution authorizing the city to make contracts with municipalities within 30 miles of the corporate limits of the city of Marion for the exchange of fire apparatus in cases of extreme emergency. Nearby towns will be approached regarding an arrangement whereby, in event of large fires, the communities will help each other out. The rate set is sufficiently high that the town would not call for help unless the need is urgent, Safety-Service Director Uncapher explained. Rates are $50 for each piece of equipment, $10 for each mile covered enroute to the fire by each piece of equipment, and $50 for each hour's work by each piece. The action last night will, if other communities contract with Marion, put any emergency calls on legal basis, and will provide the cities involved with compensation and other rights and protection will be afforded men and equipment engaged in a governmental function.

An ordinance was passed authorizing the Marion Reserve Power Co. to install five street lights. Locations of the lights were designated as one south of Fairgrounds street on Fish avenue, three near Klerx street and Fish avenue, and one at East Fairgrounds street and Polk street.

An appropriation of $1,000 from the garbage collection fund was made for the purchase of two trucks from the federal government. The trucks will be used as garbage trucks. Safety-Service Director Uncapher told council it was desirable to purchase the trucks at present since the surplus property board had authorized a 40 per cent reduction on equipment sold municipalities for sanitary purposes.

To Hire Engineer

Council also passed an amendment to a measure recently passed which provided for the hiring of engineers by the city. The amendment alters the original legislation in that it provides for the hiring of engineers by a monthly rather than daily salary. The original measure provided for the hiring of a 1st assistant engineer at $207.50 per month, and other engineers at daily rates of $7, $6, and $5 per day. The amendment provides that engineers may be hired at a rate of $200 a month. Purpose of the legislation was to prepare for the coming period of construction, particularly of an airport, in which it may be desirable to hire engineers for an extended period of time.

D. R. Biggert, chairman of the finance committee, reported to council that his committee had met with representatives of city employes, including police, fire department, hospital, and other departments in regard to a pay raise. His committee was directed to investigate the feasibility of a pay raise and report to council at a future meeting.

Council also passed an emergency measure directing the city clerk to issue a license to J. A. Raub and L. R. Lane Jr., doing business as the Yellow Cab Taxi Co.

Two petitions were presented to council. They were referred to appropriate committees for report at a future meeting. One of the petitions, signed by 16 business men, opposed the one way driving and no parking rule now in effect in Court street. The other, signed by nine property owners, requested construction of a concrete curb and gutter on each side of Wood street from Mound street to the alley west of the C. & O. railroad.

Councilman Owen Tolin, who recently sold his grocery store at 302 Silver street, told council he was contemplating leaving Marion and resigning from the council. His decision is not definite, however, he said.

In determining his future plans he said he would take into consideration educational opportunities for his two children. He expressed the hope that Marion would improve its school facilities by passing the proposed building program at the May 7 primaries.

Ditch Assessment

Safety-Service Director Uncapher reported to council that the county has assessed the city $1,580 for cleaning out the Holverstatt-Riffle ditch. The assessment is against the new municipal airport tract. Uncapher said he would report further development at the next meeting of council.

Glenn Walraven of 16 Arlington avenue appeared before council and requested permission to lease land at the municipal airport on which to build a hangar to house his plane. He was advised that the city solicitor was already investigating the manner in which such arrangements could be made and that the solicitor would advise him in the near future.

Water analysis for the last two weeks as reported to council by the city sanitary engineer showed maximum hardness of 7.5 grains a gallon on March 16 and a minimum hardness of 6.4 grains a gallon on March 22.

least inconvenient to the public." There are close to 47,000,000 tons of coal in storage, he added.

Cites Record Output

He estimated that for the last couple of weeks the weekly output has averaged 13,000,000 tons, a record for the industry.

Lewis said negotiations with the soft coal operators will continue and that "anytime we reach agreement we will try to make it effective at the earliest possible moment."

Lewis told reporters that the counter proposals submitted by the operators' yesterday were a "mumble jumble of something entirely unsatisfactory and not responsive to the necessities of the occasion."

The miners traditionally follow a "no contract, no work" policy.

As the day arrived on which the United Mine Workers leader may move to cancel the present year-old agreement, effective at midnight Sunday, the operators and a committee of UMW representatives reached a critical phase in negotiations toward a new pact.

Operators Give Side

The operators presented to Lewis yesterday a summation of their position on the nine general proposals he submitted. This in effect amounted to a declaration of counter-offers — without getting too specific.

Lewis did not throw out the proposition immediately, so the operators decided to remain silent until the UMW leader makes clear his reaction. The fact that the miners' negotiating committee still had it under study was taken to be slightly encouraging. At least it was keeping the negotiations alive another day.

The union leader summoned his anthracite scale committee to Washington today, to decide procedure for terminating the hard coal contract covering 75,000 Pennsylvania miners.

Canadian Refuses To Talk in Spy Inquiry

By The Associated Press

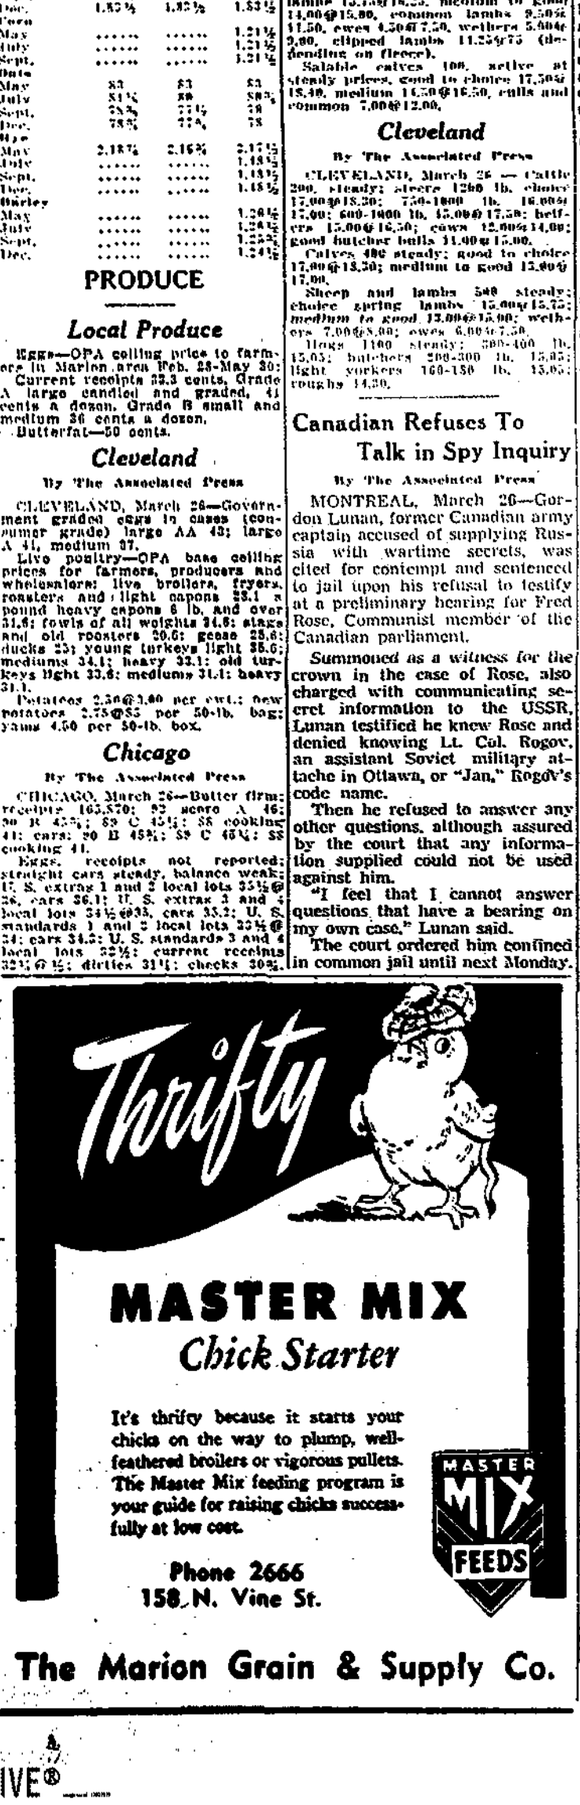
MONTREAL, March 26—Gordon Lunan, former Canadian army captain accused of supplying Russia with wartime secrets, was cited for contempt and sentenced to jail upon his refusal to testify at a preliminary hearing for Fred Rose, Communist member of the Canadian parliament.

Summoned as a witness for the crown in the case of Rose, also charged with communicating secret information to the USSR, Lunan testified he knew Rose and denied knowing Lt. Col. Rogov, an assistant Soviet military attache in Ottawa, or "Jan," Rogov's code name.

Then he refused to answer any other questions, although assured by the court that any information supplied could not be used against him.

"I feel that I cannot answer questions that have a bearing on my own case," Lunan said.

The court ordered him confined in common jail until next Monday.



ASSORTED LEADERS ADVANCE IN TRADING

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 26 — Assorted rails and industrials continued to make headway over the recovery road in today's stock market although many leaders seemed fatigued by the recent climb.

The fact that the 60-stock average had regained about 70 per cent of the February slump tended to exert a cautionary influence and cause a certain amount of profit cashing. The somewhat brighter foreign picture and persistent Wall Street hopes of a bulge in price ceilings again inspired much of the bidding.

Dealings, fast at the opening, slowed later. Extreme gains running to better than a point were trimmed here and there near the fourth hour and a smattering of losers was in evidence. Some liquors steadied.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I KEPT a wary eye on Mary as I told her the real reason for her step-mother-in-law's anxiety concerning Olina's betrothal announcement.

After all, I reminded myself, the fact that Olina meant to announce her engagement to Georges at the luncheon was something to which Mary could not possibly take exception, even if her pride were a bit pricked by the public emphasis upon the betrothal to the former princess of Trees following so closely upon Georges' flambuoyant attentions to Mary.

Something Else Again

This flaunting of the royal betrothal ring, however, was "something else again." Georges once had been engaged to Mary, and their engagement had been known to every one in their circle of friends as Olina's to Noel had been.

But Mary had not worn the royal betrothal ring, heirloom present of each king of Trees to his prospective bride. I remembered distinctly the beautiful, tasteful and costly ring which Georges had given Mary, but it had been purchased in New York, and was of the latest vintage on the day he gave it to her. It was no heirloom of his royal family.

The point Olina was going to make was not a subtle one, and had a certain cruelty in its humiliating implication.

Not of Royal Blood

Mary was not of royal birth. Olina's flaunting gesture would say. Georges never would have given her the heirloom ring He had reserved that honor for a princess of royal blood equal to his own.

I doffed a mental chapeau to Olga for crippling her daughter's gesture. Thanks to her kindly message, Mary would be fully aware of what was coming, and be able to cope with the situation. But I waited tensely for another explosion of wrath from my husband's tempestuous and temperamental niece.

For the fraction of a second, the explosion appeared imminent. Mary's eyes were electric with anger—I almost could see sparks shooting from them—her fists clenched, and her right foot tapped in staccato fashion on the floor.

Anger Vanishes

Then with the volatile swiftness which so often has taken my breath away, all traces of her anger were wiped away as effectively as an eraser removes chalk marks from a blackboard, and from her throat came the heartiest and most mirthful of laughs.

"Why the little so-and-so, and such-and-such!" she said, and with surprise I heard genuine admiration in her voice. "I didn't think she had it in her! Well I guess I've got it coming to me, so I might as well swallow it without making a face. Let's see, who is going to be around when she springs the surprise?"

"Olina herself, Olga, Philip, you, Noel, Junior, Roderick, your uncle Dicky and myself."

"What about Faith?" Mary asked, with a touch of anxiety which I promptly allayed.

A Foolproof Scheme

"Katharine says she has a foolproof scheme of keeping Faith from even thinking about the luncheon," I said, and felt like echoing the gusty sigh of relief which came from Mary's lips I yield to no one in my love for my small daughter, but her presence in any ticklish social or diplomatic situation is apt to spell dynamite.

"That's one danger out of the way," she said. "She might sit through the whole thing without ever opening her mouth or realizing what the performance meant On the other hand!"

She gave a little shudder, and made another relieved comment

"And, though Allah He knows, I wouldn't want a hair on my darling Grannie's head twisted out of place," she said. "If she did have to have an incipient heart attack, I'm glad it happened just now. She'd have had a real one if she'd had to witness what she would consider an unforgivable slur upon her granddaughter."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Cancer

Long observation has taught medical men to recognize certain non-fatal conditions as forerunners of the deadly cancer This is a vastly hopeful and important advance.

Today, cancer is second only to diseases of the heart and blood vessels as to a cause of death. Yet, this mortality rate might be materially reduced, according to Dr. Hugh R. Spencer of the University of Maryland, by eliminating these precancerous conditions.

By precancerous is meant that which precedes or comes before cancer—conditions which may, or do inevitably lead to cancer.

For example, there is a condition of the skin known as actinic dematosis, a skin inflammation resulting from excessive prolonged exposure to sunlight. Dr. Spencer believes that invariably this condition progresses from inflammation of the skin and overgrowth of the tissues to the development of skin cancer.

Hence, the removal of these overgrowths of tissue before they have become cancerous is an important preventive measure.

About one out of every five cases of skin cancer of the scalp and arms and legs develop in old scars of burns or ulcers. Sebaceous cysts of the skin which are swellings, containing a fatty material, develop into cancer in about one out of twenty-five, according to Dr. Spencer. Thus, these skin disturbances should receive prompt treatment by the physician so that the danger of cancer is removed.

In the case of women, tears of the lower part of the womb which occurs as a result of childbirth also may be factors in producing cancer, if they are neglected. Hence, it is Dr. Spencer's opinion that cancer of the womb can be reduced in frequency by proper treatment of these tears.

Furthermore, women past 40 years of age should be regularly examined at least once every six months so that should cancer develop it may be detected early and operation performed at once. During this examination, if any suspicious growth is seen, a bit of the tissue may be removed and examined under the microscope in order to make certain of the diagnosis.

Cancer of the breast in women with chronic inflammation of the breast is from two to four times as frequent as in women with normal breasts. However, there is no means known for telling in just which cases the cancer may develop. If there is any doubt, a bit of the breast tissue may also be removed for examination under the microscope.

How good to know that cancer can be forestalled, scotched before it can begin to develop. But here, as always where cancer is concerned, "prompt!" and "early" are the words of hope. They are hopeful words even after it occurs because with immediate treatment many lives can still be saved.

The United States consumes annually 60 per cent of the oil produced in the world.

JOBS FOR DISABLED VETS URGED BY USES

Employers Asked To List All Available Openings.

Urging more extensive employment of disabled veterans and other persons who have physical limitations, Fred B. Scherff, manager of the Marion office of the United States Employment Service today suggested in connection with the current job development program now being conducted that all local employers list every existing job opening with the USES.

He pointed out that the USES has a listing of many available jobs, but with further cooperation of employers in supplementing the list, considerable more can be accomplished in assisting these types of applicants to secure suitable employment.

Mr. Scherff also reported that 24,692 physically handicapped, including many disabled veterans were placed in employment in Ohio during 1945.

The experience gained by the USES in the use of techniques determining the physical demands of the job and the physical capacities of the worker has practically in every case demonstrated the ability of the USES personnel to satisfactorily place handicapped workers whereby they can render efficient service and without creating hazards for the workers or their associates.

President Truman recently appealed to the nation's employers to utilize the USES in speeding the employment of disabled veterans and other handicapped workers.

FUNDS OKAYED FOR TAX EVASION DRIVE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 26—A new $16,135,000 fund to help the internal revenue bureau run down approximately 40,000 tips on tax evasions won the approval of the house appropriations committee.

The money was included in a $233,179,153 overall deficiency appriation bill for miscellaneous agencies which the committee sent to the house floor for debate later this week.

The committee acted after hearing bureau heads explain results already achieved in crackdown operations against income tax evaders.

During the first six months of the current fiscal year, Assistant Revenue Commissioner William T. Sherwood told the committee, additional tax assessments which are "practically 100 per cent collectible" were $172,587,000 in excess of assessments for the corresponding period of the perceding year.

Approximately 40,000 leads on attempted evasions have been given the bureau, Sherwood said, and many more tips are expected.

End of War Finds Filipinos Up in Air

By The Associated Press

MANILA—Two air lines with executives who fought for the Philippines are active in an island post-war aviation boom. Bridges wrecked and ships sunk, Filipinos are patronizing air services as not only the fastest way to get places but the only way.

In three months, Far Eastern Air Transport, Inc., beginning operation with four surplus C-47s bought from the Army, has hauled more than a million and a half pounds of freight and now has 14 transports and flights to 11 Philippine cities. The chief pilot is Maj. Henry W. Melder.

Philippine Air Lines is resuming war-interrupted service. Lt. Col. P. I. Gunn, Arkansas born, is operations manager.

Memorial Portraits of Associated Press Correspondents Who Lost Lives on War Fronts Completed by Noted Artist

By PAUL FRIGGENS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, March 26 — A group of paintings unprecedented in art—memorial portraits of six Associated Press correspondents who lost their lives covering war fronts—has been completed for The Associated Press by the distinguished New York artist, Francis Vandeveer Kughler.

Each of the correspondents is pictured against a suggestion of the background of the war theater in which he was killed—remarkable likenesses of the men as they looked on the battlefields of the world.

The paintings now hang in The Associated Press general offices in New York. They tell an epic story of heroism and sacrifice for the news from the South Pacific to the snows of Austria.

Six Memorialized

Five reporters and one photographer compose the memorial group:

Edward J. Neil, fatally wounded by artillery while reporting the Spanish civil war near Teruel, Spain, January 2, 1938.

Witt Hancock, lost at sea off Java in an aerial bombardment during the Japanese invasion of the Netherlands Indies, March 7, 1942.

Edward H. Crockett, lost in the torpedoing of a British destroyer in the Mediterranean, February 5, 1943.

Bede Irvin, photographer, killed by U. S. aerial bombs dropped accidentally over the American front lines near St. Lo, France, July 25, 1944.

Asahel Bush, killed by Japanese aerial bombs at Leyte while reporting the American recapture of the Philippines, October 24, 1944.

Joseph Morton, executed by the Germans at Mauthausen concentration camp in Austria, January 24, 1945, after being taken prisoner with a secret rescue party sent into Slovakia to evacuate Allied airmen.

Difficult Assignment

Boldly conceived, vigorously interpreted, such a group of canvases probably never before has been attempted. The commission was one of the most difficult. It called for daring, imagination, realism and, above all, authentic documentation.

To achieve continuity in the series, Kughler strove to paint each man realistically as he must have looked a few hours before his death. This is a sharp departure from the customary formal memorial potrait. A sense of distance in each picture subtly suggests the drama, daring and tragic circumstances behind each correspondent's death.

Kughler worked out his backgrounds authentically for each figure, ranging from the warm Iberian hills and bright Spanish sunlight in the Neil portrait to the cold, forbidding sky reflecting the Austrian winter in which Morton was executed by the Nazis.

Took Little Rest

Probably no group of memorial portraits achieves such unity and design, Kughler believes. Once his original research and color grouping was arranged, the artist swung into his work at fever pitch, often painting around the clock. The result is a group eloquent in the careful blending of poignancy and authority.

Kughler, 43, is well known for his portraits and still life paintings. He studied at the National Academy of Design and was a leading figure in many national war art projects. But nothing, he says, ever has excited him like the AP assignment "because I was painting daring, extraordinary human reporters who did not hesitate to risk their lives that the truth might prevail."

Secret of King's Bad Temper Is Discovered

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM—Swedish historians and medical experts who opened the coffin of Sweden's great King Gustav Vasa after 386 years believe they have found out why he had such a bad temper. They found a large cavity in his cheek bone due to an abscessed tooth which bothered him for an estimated ten years. They also discovered he had small hands and big feet, one leg was shorter than the other.

Gustav Vasa, who was regarded as the "builder" of modern Sweden, died in 1560.

After scientific studies of his skeleton had been made, his remains were exposed publicly for a day in Uppsala's Cathedral.

Approximately 200 companies have been granted licenses to manufacture DDT, the super potent bituminous coal derived insecticide.

CLEVELAND, March 26 — Sailor Sammy Secreet, Pittsburgh boxer who steamed into Tokyo bay as a member of Admiral Halsey's task force, started on another victory trail at the Cleveland arena last night in his first post-war battle. Secreet proved that four years in the Navy hadn't made him "ring-rusty" as he pounded Irish Billy Walker of Portland, Ore., all over the squared oval to win a unanimous 10-round decision. Secreet weighed 150; compared with Walker's 154.

LEGISLATOR CHARGES JOBS DENIED VETS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 26 — Rep. Frances Bolton (R-O...) called on government departments today to discard the policies which she said gave some civilians preference over war veterans in federal employment.

"In all too many government and semi-governmental agencies the veteran is being very shabbily treated," Mrs. Bolton said in an interview.

She added that jobs and promotions are going to "too many civilians who for one reason or another were not in the armed services."

Asserting that protests are reaching congress "from all points of the compass," Mrs. Bolton said "agencies would do well to examine themselves and change their methods before congressional determination to give the returning veteran a decent break expresses itself in investigation and action."

DEATH CLOSES SCHOOL

IRONTON, O., March 26 — County Health Commissioner J. W. Payne yesterday ordered the Dawson-Bryant school at nearby Coal Grove closed for 10 days after the death of a pupil, Lucile Jordan, 7, of spinal meningitis. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jordan.

About 439,000 miles of the nation's highway system are paved.

Permanent Starch for Fabrics Hailed as Latest War Marvel

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, March 26—A permanent starch in the form of a spray that lasts the life of a garment, either washing or dry cleaning, was announced today by the Naugatuck Chemical division of the United States Rubber Co.

The new starch came from war laboratories, was developed by chemists of the company. The new synthetic is applied in warehouses for cotton and rayon fabrics. Key to the new starch is a resin. The particles are among the smallest known, so tiny that they are not visible under ordinary microscopes, and they penetrate the fabric and coat textile fibers.

Lots of Advantages

The announcement says that the starch does not yellow and is compatible with all fabric colors. Because the resin is completely washable, it does not shorten the life of garments, and produces no skin irritation.

Garments are said to retain their crispness under all weather conditions. This resin also is used on curtains and draperies. The permanent starching process adds not more than two per cent to the weight of a fabric.

Another new war byproduct is a glossy white enamel that does not chip or crack. Also a resin, this is used on metal. Pounding with a hammer hard enough to dent the metal is said not to crack or chip the enamel. Flexing the metal does not cause cracking.

The enamel can be produced in all colors and it is useful for kitchen utensils, instruments like hair dryers that must stand high temperatures, refrigerators, and for hospital and other equipment where resistance to chemical action is desirable.

"Skin" for Machines

A third new war product is a synthetic spray that forms a skin over machinery and packages to protects them from moisture. This coating was made first for the Air forces, to protect planes exposed to the weather and ocean spray on freighter decks. Grease coating required many hours of labor to remove. The removal of the skin was so easy that about 80 per cent of this labor was saved.

The synthetic skin is removed much as soft bark would be stripped from trees. No knife is needed. A fingernail cuts through the skin and starts the strip to be peeled off. This resin is said to be useful for covering packages of irregular shape and for sealing the tops of bottles.

REUTHER ACCEPTS. Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the UAW-CIO, waves from the shoulders of fellow delegates after he accepted a unanimous nomination as candidate for next president of International UAW, during convention meeting in Atlantic City. (Associated Press Wirephoto).

Winner of UAW Free-for-All May Be CIO's Next President

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 26—The rough and tumble fight between R. J. Thomas and Walter Reuther for the presidency of the United Auto Workers is of the utmost importance to all organized labor.

The winner may well become the next president of the CIO.

Labor people have long recognized that if Philip Murray should retire as CIO head within the next few years—or if anything should happen to him—his successor might logically come from the UAW.

The two biggest and strongest unions in the CIO are the United Auto Workers and the United Steel workers. Murray is president of the steel workers.

The Thomas-Reuther campaign besides having national implications, is one of the most dramatic chapters in the history of bitter factionalism in the UAW-CIO.

A Little Clarification

The politics of this young and brawny union have been so complicated and so mixed up with ideologies, hidden forces, and strong personalities that the average newspaper reader has often been bewildered. Let's take a look at the two candidates in this election:

Roland Jay Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO for the last seven years, is a burly man with a fog-horn voice. He is 45. He was born in East Palestine, Ohio; went to school in Youngstown and settled in Detroit in 1922.

There he became a welder, first for Cadillac and then for Chrysler. In 1933 he was elected president of an independent union in a Chrysler plant. This group merged with a Dodge plant union headed by Richard T. Frankensteen and they called themselves the Independent Auto Workers Association. Thomas became vice-president with Frankensteen president.

Enters UAW Setup

In 1936 the Frankensteen-Thomas group entered the young and struggling United Auto Workers, which in that same year left the AFL, joined the CIO and began its existence as the UAW-CIO.

Thomas became a UAW-CIO vice-president in 1937. Early in 1939, when President Homer Martin was thrown out of the union, Thomas was made president.

During the war, Thomas was a labor member of the National War Labor board and a member of President Roosevelt's labor advisory committee. He is housing director of the CIO, and active in CIO affairs.

Now for the challenger in the fight:

Walter Philip Reuther is 38, red-haired, athletic, a spellbinding speaker.

Reuther is the man who led the General Motors strike, in which his strategy has been both praised and criticized in labor circles.

He was born in Wheeling, W. Va. His father was a labor leader. At the age of 15 he went to work for a steel company and learned the trade of tool and die maker. He was fired for organizing the men in protest against Sunday and holiday work.

In 1927 Reuther went to Detroit. He was a Ford Co. foreman. He worked for several companies.

Meanwhile he studied in his spare time at Wayne university. In 1932 he was fired again for labor activities. He and his brother, Victor, took a three year trip around the world. They visited England, Russia, China, Japan, and other countries working in factories and studying industry and labor.

Leads First Strikes

In 1935 they returned to Detroit. Walter Reuther became head of a Detroit local of the UAW, and was elected a member of the union's executive board in 1936. He led the first major strikes in the auto industry, at the Kelsey Hayes Wheel Co. in December, 1936.

In 1940, Reuther advanced the "Reuther plan" for using auto plant facilities to make war planes. This was what first brought him to national attention. In 1942 he was elected one of the two vice presidents of the UAW.

So much for two candidates.

There is a third "strong man" at this convention, making his influence felt behind the scenes as he has done ever since he helped to found the UAW-CIO in 1936. He is George F. Addes, UAW secretary-treasurer for 10 years. Addes is supporting Thomas for reelection.

Reuther and Thomas are the candidates, but looking at it another way, this campaign is also a struggle between the Reuther and Addes factions of the union.

Both Reuther and Addes have large groups of loyal supporters who look to them for guidance.

Dick Frankensteen, who ran for mayor of Detroit last year and was defeated, was teamed with Addes at the head of this faction for many years. But Frankensteen now is fading out of the picture. He is not seeking reelection as a UAW vice-president, and intends to go into private business.

Not "Right Wing"

The Addes faction is generally considered the "left wing" of the union. It would be a mistake, however, to think of the Reuther group as a "right wing." Reuther's brand of trade unionism is extremely aggressive toward industry. But in union politics he has always been identified as middle-of-the-roader. He is outspokenly opposed to the Communist party minority in the UAW-CIO.

Thomas, too, has been identified as a middle-of-the-road man. No one has accused him of being a Communist. It is said part of his success in holding the presidency for seven years has been due to the fact that opposing factions could agree on him they couldn't agree on other leaders.

The Communist minority, however, is supporting Thomas in this election that doesn't mean they consider him a kindred spirit—it means, for one thing at least, that they prefer him to Reuther. They intensely dislike Reuther. The Communist Daily Worker has been panning Reuther every day this week.

The stage now is set. The election will be held Wednesday. All of organized labor is watching to see what happens.

Lady Nearly Choked While Lying in Bed—Due to Stomach Gas

One lady said a few days ago that she used to be afraid to go to bed at night. She was swollen with stomach gas, which always got worse when she went to bed, and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. She couldn't lie flat. Had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got ERB-HELP and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all drug stores here in Marion.—Adv.

BARUCH URGES QUICK EXTENSION OF OPA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 26 — Bernard M. Baruch told a house committee yesterday the National Association of Manufacturers "really doesn't know what it is asking for" in demanding an end of price controls.

If OPA is not extended "pretty quick," he said, "we're all going to fall down on our faces."

Baruch said that instead of retrenchments in price control the government should control wages and adopt other far-reaching machinery to combat the inflationary threat.

He said there must be one overriding objective—greater production.

Asked by Rep. Monroney (D-Okla) what he thought of the NAM's proposal last week that all price controls be lifted June 30, Baruch said:

"They don't know what they're asking for. You just take off these controls now and see what happens. As a businessman I would dislike to see it. I'm no control man. I'm a free enterprise man. But we've got to keep a steady hand to save free enterprise."

Foreseeing a bright future, he predicted that "when we really get going we'll make war production look like nothing." He said he expects demand for necessities "to be terrific" for five to seven years, and predicted federal revenues will be large enough to begin debt retirement.

Farmers in the two-county area have marketed 6,073 sheep and lambs through the pool since the first was held and consignments at the last four have approached or exceeded 1,000.

TOO WARM FOR SNUFFY

BALTIMORE, Md. — Spring and Minnie, the Baltimore zoo's elephant, arrived just about the same time in the life of Snuffy, 14-month-old polar bear cub. Snuffy was flown here last fall from the Arctic, and Minnie hadn't been let out into her yard since last summer—until the other day. Minnie, sniffing the spring air, snorted happily, trumpeted and ran around her pen. Snuffy took one frightened look, then made a bee line for his rocky den.

JUDGE RAPS OHIO OPA FOR "TRAPPING" STYLE

Mt. Vernon Office Draws Fire in Arrest Trick.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 26 — Common Pleas Judge John R. King yesterday criticized the Mt. Vernon Office of Price Administration for methods used to catch price ceiling violators.

Judge King, reducing to $505 a $1,100 municipal court judgment awarded Floyd Truex of Mt. Vernon for an overcharge in a motorcycle transaction, said the sale would "not have been effected except by the persuasion of OPA officials."

Truex was awarded the triple damage judgment last Oct. 11 against Don Rife for charging him $900 for a motorcycle with a ceiling price of $395.

Rife did not want to sell the motorcycle, King said, but told Truex he would let him have it for $900. Truex then discussed the matter with OPA officials, who "marked his money for him and waited outside Rife's home ready to bounce upon him and seize the money," the judge asserted.

Declaring he did not condone the activities of either Truex or Rife in the transaction, King said the price control act was not passed so that persons could "intentionally enrich themselves."

Army's Court-Martial Setup Due for Probe

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 26—Asserting "the war department wants the most efficient and just system of military justice that can be devised," Secretary of War Patterson has appointed a committee of judges and lawyers to survey Army courts-martial procedure.

Dean Arthur T. Vanderbilt of the New York university law school will head the committee of nine, which was nominated by Willis Smith, Raleigh, N. C., president of the American Bar association. Dean Vanderbilt said the committee would hold its first meeting in Washington early in April.

The committee's recommendations will be made to the war department as a possible basis for revising court martial procedure, which has remained unchanged for 25 years.

FREEMAN IS NAMED CAA PILOT EXAMINER

First in Marion Authorized To Issue Licenses.

A. A. Freeman, operator of the hangar and flying school at the Marion airport, has been named a pilot examiner for the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

The appointment gives him authority to give flight tests and written examinations and issue private licenses to pilots who have completed their solo training.

Freeman is the first Marion flier to hold such a rating. The action of the CAA makes permanent the temporary rating he received last September.

In the last few days Freeman has examined and issues licenses to seven fliers from Marion and other central Ohio points. The list includes Don Parish of Richwood, James Sdander of Findley, George Flinch of Kenton, Norman McMillan of Mt. Gilead, Glenn Wrenn of Spencer street, Marion, Edwin A. Studer of New Washington and William Coffae of Clover avenue, Marion.

Parish, McMillan, Wrenn and Coffae took their flight training under Freeman's direction at the Marion airport. The others came here for the CAA examination and license after completing training at other ports.

Freeman said today that 15 other fliers at the Marion port have completed sufficient solo time and now are in process of obtaining their private pilot's license.

Another class of 20 to 25 soon will start flight instruction under Freeman at the port.

A-Bomb Task Force Sets New Schedule

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 26 — The atom bomb task force decided yesterday that even under the delayed schedule ordered by President Truman both bomb tests can be completed this summer.

A spokesman reported after a meeting of the joint Army-Navy staff that it was agreed the second experiment could be completed before September weather at Bikini makes conditions impossible.

Actually, the spokesman said, the task force hopes to compress both tests within the space of a few weeks after the initial experiment about July 1.

In answer to questions, the spokesman said the task force has received no indication of any intention to cancel the tests and that it is proceeding with detailed plans to meet the schedule set by Mr. Truman.

The original schedule called for the first experiment to be run off about May 15, with the second blast following by about six weeks.

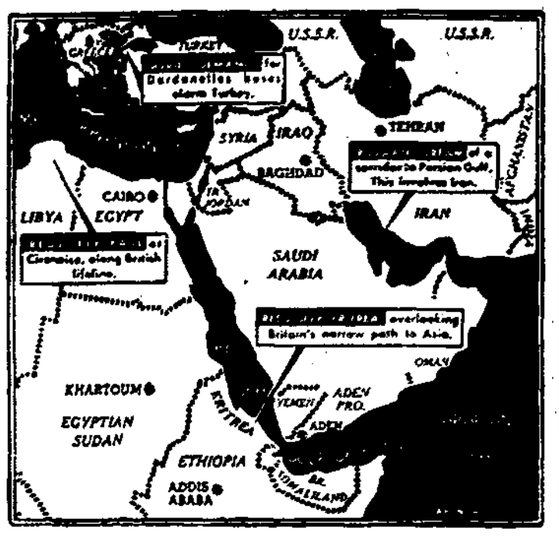
Russia's Aim in Iran



Much of the tension in Europe and the Middle East is based on difference of opinion over the future status of vital waterways. The British seek to protect their lifeline against the pressure of the Russians who aim to establish and strengthen warm-weather outlets. This map gives highlights of the struggle for the seaways.

By J. FRANK TRAGLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — There's little argument that Russia is throwing its weight around in Iran. But there's disagreement as to why the Soviet is doing it.

Two reasons often mentioned by observers are:

1. Oil.

2. A warm water outlet to the sea via the Persian Gulf and the Red Sea.

It's beyond dispute that Russia is without a warm water port. But what of oil?

Russian Statistics Secret

Up to date figures on Russian petroleum production have not been made public by the USSR. But last November the Petroleum Administration for War (PAW) provided some estimates. It listed Russian production in 1940 at approximately 600,000 barrels daily. This figure corresponds with the 1940 total mentioned by Premier Stalin in his election speech of last month—31,000,000 tons.

In 1944, PAW's latest estimate, Russian petroleum production was roughly 750,000 barrels daily.

Using PAW figures, petroleum production in the Middle East (Iran, Iraq and Saudi Arabia) was nearly 1,300,000 barrels daily in 1940 and about 1,450,000 barrels daily in 1944.

From the production point of view, therefore, Russia's output was about half that of her little Middle East neighbors to the south.

What Stalin Said

Russia's ambitious industrial plans for the future call for greatly increased petroleum supplies. Stalin told the Russians in his speech that the USSR goal is 60,000,000 tons — almost twice the 1940 figure. He said this might not be realized for 15 years or longer. But he was confident, he said, it would be achieved.

One way of achieving part of this program, of course, would be to obtain petroleum concessions in Iran similar to those enjoyed there by the British. But a glance at a map of possible petroleum sources gives a strong hint that Russia's future petroleum wealth lies right in her own back yard.

How Oil Men See It

Oil men look to the future in two ways:

1. Proven peroleum reserves.

1. Proven petroleum reserves. These are reserves that are known to exist because wells have been sunk and oil has been extracted.

2. Petroleum possibilities. These are hunches based on geological studies. No wells have been drilled. But the earth's composition is such as to indicate the presence of petroleum.

PAW listed the proven reserves, as of Jan 1. 1944, as follows:

The United States, 20,000,000,000 barrels; Middle East, 15,700,000,000; South America 6,700,000,000; Russia, 5,700,000,000; Far East 1,000,000,000; Europe, 630,000,000.

This places Russia fourth in proven reserves. But the picture is a somewhat distorted one from a long-range view. It's distorted because very few test (wildcat) wells have been sunk in the USSR compared with extensive drilling elsewhere.

It's when one turns to a consideration of petroleum possibilities that Russia's potential wealth becomes most impressive. Areas listed by PAW as "most favorable" and "possible" extend almost from end to end and top to bottom of that vast nation, with the exception of the extreme eastern section. And more of it is "most favorable" than "possible."

The comparable area of the Middle East is as a lake placed beside an ocean. The United States potential is small in comparison.

Potentially, therefore, Russia is the greatest of petroleum producing nations. An Iranian concession would be of immediate help because many Russian wells and refineries were damaged by the Germans. But no such concession, based on potential reserves, is necessary to insure Russia's industrial future.

A warm water port, however, is another matter. Russia hasn't one of those in her own back yard.

CHICAGO—Dr. H. Berton McCauley, a Washington, D. C., dentist, says it's evident the majority of Americans do not use toothbrushes. In the Journal of the American Dental Association, Dr. McCauley reports of the 185,300,000 toothbrushes manufactured in 1944, there were 106,000,000 for civilians after armed forces needs were filled. He says 220,000,000 would have been required to supply with two brushes yearly persons between the ages of two and 60.

BUCYRIANS WIND UP FULL WEEK IN PLANT

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 26 — More than 100 workers at the Crawford Steel Foundry ended their first week of work in the struck plant today, working and living in the plant in defiance to CIO-USW pickets who continue to guard the shop entrance. Culminating the week of work, the men poured their first steel Monday into molds which have been turned out since the men went back to work.

The workers adopted a pass system for taking turns at returning to their homes to bathe, shave and visit with their families over the week-end, maintaining a working force at the plant throughout the week-end.

Approximately 120 workers were on the job Monday.

Although about a dozen pickets remain in their places in front of the shop entrance no effort was made to prevent the workers from leaving or returning.

The workers returned to their jobs before day light last Wednesday morning in a surprise move and have remained at the plant eating and sleeping there in their protest against the two month old wage dispute.

TOJO IS REPORTED LOSING HIS MEMORY

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, March 26 — Former Premier Hideko Tojo, awaiting trial as Japan's number one war criminal and fearing the worst, has begun to lose his memory, authoritative Japanese sources said today.

The Japanese added that American officials were "very dissatisfied" with this development and had expressed belief Tojo was "feigning."

The reliable sources said that during questioning by American prosecutors, the former premier found he was no longer able to recall dates and other important details of momentous events of his reign.

They reported Tojo said his "amnesia" was caused by his attempted suicide, when he shot himself in the chest with a small caliber revolver.

The Japanese added that Tojo was in good health and "quite calm," in contrast to his former "depressed attitude." He is convinced, they said, that he will never leave prison alive.

Makers of Violins Helping Improve Music in Schools

By The United Press

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—One of the world's greatest violin makers has temperarily abandoned his profession in order to improve the musicianship of youngsters.

Willabald Conrad Stenger now travels from town to town visiting schools and universities where he uses the magic of his fingers to turn inferior violins, 'cellos, and basses into lively musical instruments suitable for the best symphonies and orchestras.

Stenger started working with school instruments four years ago at Evanston, Ill., and in 1944 decided to give up his violin-making in order to devote full time to improving school instruments.

For the man who has made 5000 violins for 40 years, it was no easy decision.

"I've sold as many as 400 violins, and I have enough material for several hundred more, but I feel that I can do more good by traveling to different universities and schools and doing what I can to improve the instruments they use," he said.

Stenger says it takes about three years to make a good violin, although only a short time is involved in the actual handicraft work. He explains that the wood must be seasoned a year, carved, seasoned for six months, worked on again, seasoned for another six months, varnished and finally seasoned for a year.

The violin maker uses a special wood which he imported from Ceylon 23 years ago. The quality of the wood and the varnish, are the most important factors for creating a good violin, he says.

When selecting parsnips it is important that the roots are small to medium in size. Large, coarse roots are woody. The best method of cooking is to boil them whole without peeling. When tender, peel and split lengthwise. After boiling, they can be simply buttered or creamed, broiled or sauteed.

Queen for a day, MBS afternoon series which is profuse in its daily gifts to each honored woman, will broadcast next Tuesday from Chicago's busiest downtown corner, State and Madison streets.

Anyone who happens along thus can join in the "Studio Audience," which will be limited only to available pavement standing room. Because there is a question of traffic control during the half-hour or more the corner and adjacent space will be occupied, the program reports it has obtained the cooperation of city officials in supplying a cordon of mounted policemen. Mayor Edward J. Kelly has been invited as special guest.

French Welfare Vital To World, Mackenzie Vows

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

PARIS, March 26—A distinguished Frenchman remarked to me during a dinner conversation that his country is very ill and that he believes the other western Allies should treat her accordingly—that is, with firmness when she is unreasonable, and with material aid when she needs it.

This line has kept running though my mind so persistently that I finally decided to incorporate it here. Probably it has stuck with me because I'm sure from my own observations that my friend's diagnosis is correct. Whether his prescription is right is something to be determined by the Allied governments.

Dewitt Mackenzie

Apropos of this, one notes that former Governor Harold Stassen in his New York speech asked Americans that they "promptly extend credits under proper terms to those who seriously need them, which includes England, France, Greece and Russia."

I've stressed the point of France's illness in previous articles, but her position is so serious that it can't be over-emphasized. It's grave, not only for her but for the world at large, because this important country is as vital to global well-being as is your arm to your body.

Case Is Complicated

France's case is rendered especially grave by complications. As this column previously has reported, she is ill economically, politically and spiritually. She was sickening when Hitler loosed his blitzkrieg, and the shock of her frightful defeat, coupled with the hell of the Nazi occupation, led to the present crisis—for crisis it is.

My French friend of the dinner conversation is right when he says his country needs moral as well as material help. She isn't the France of old. The general public is bewildered and is increasingly inclined to experiment with political nostrums in the hope of finding relief.

Then there's another element entering into the situation, and that is injured pride. What else could be expected in the case of a nation which so long was one of the world's dominant powers? France finds it hard to accept the change bought by the Hitlerian conquest, and this has been responsible or many of her international political moves which haven't found favor in the eyes of all the Allies. She is fighting to retrieve her former position.

France's most pressing need is easement in the matter of food. Folk can't think rightly when they're undernourished, as is the situation with countless people in this country. Fortunately spring has brought the warmth which has been denied throughout the winter because of the shortages of fuel.

Needs Supplies

But along with food relief there must be a start in economic recovery. France must have from abroad the machinery and supplies to get her industries into action again. The chief source of these things for most of the world is, of course, the United States and so it is largely to America that France is looking.

Once a measurable start has been made in the matter of these two basic items of relief, France's illness should take a turn for the better, though recovery may be a long time in coming.

Cancer causes about 163,600 deaths a year in the United States.

Some Taxpayers Seem a Bit Too Generous

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE—Baltimore county treasurer William J. Foley classifies all taxpayers into (a) those who pay, (b) those who don't pay, and—believe it or not—(c) those who pay twice.

He says those in class (c) aren't motivated by an unusual feeling of generosity toward the county government; they "just want to be honest men." They have borrowed from building and home loan organizations—which pay the taxes in lump sum—and they file their own returns even though they don't receive tax bills.

Carbon black is another name for soot.

Piles Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

Whose Program Is It?

HARRY TRUMAN'S argument for party unity to carry out the Democratic program must have left as many doubts in the minds of his listeners at Jackson Day rallies as it left in the composite mind of the public. Mr. Truman as head of his party, is in a tough situation.

Southern Democrats, whose right to their political affiliation is clearer than the right of Henry A. Wallace, insist that the President does not represent their views, yet are criticized by Mr. Wallace and threatened with expulsion from their own party for expressing dissent.

On the very day that Mr. Truman was appealing for unity, George Addes, secretary-treasurer of United Automobile Workers, CIO, was saying in his annual report to that union: "We doubt if there was ever a president in the history of the country who made so many suggestions and recommendations, and then forgot all about them. He has faltered and weakened at the very time when the whole country was crying for sound and courageous leadership. From the start we were doubtful as to his ability to furnish the kind of leadership which would revitalize his party into one activity sponsoring and fighting for progressive legislation." Mr. Addes speaks for many radicals in the labor movement.

Mr. Truman, for an obvious reason, lacks the power to unify his party. Its disintegration as a coalition became inevitable with the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who founded and maintained the coalition. Mr. Roosevelt's power was his ability to muster a popular majority. It was personal, not organizational. There was no time under Mr. Roosevelt's leadership when his followers were genuinely unified, but they remained together as a working coalition because they knew their leader's strength at the polls. Mr. Truman never has demonstrated any strength at the polls, which is at the bottom of his party's inclination to doubt that he ever will. His troubles will be over when he carries every state except Maine and Vermont in a presidential election.

Pearl of the Month

THE CIVILIAN Production Administration spokesman, textiles division, who says there would be enough stockings for everybody if women would quit trying so hard to find them has given consumers the pearl of wisdom for the month of March.

If consumers would quit trying to find butter, there'd soon be a surplus. If they'd quit looking for houses, the real estate market would be quiet. If no one showed any special interest in used cars, the prices would drop. If men didn't keep hunting for shorts and shirts, these articles soon would be on sale at bargain prices. If no one wanted to build a house there would be no lumber shortage, and if men would quit casting an appreciative and longing eye at attractive women it would be no time at all until the pursued would become the pursuers and women would be picking up restaurant checks and buying the theater tickets.

Al it would take is a revolution in human nature.

Curiosity and Diplomacy

POSTPONEMENT of the first atomic bomb demonstrations by six weeks will sharpen curiosity, whatever secondary effect it may have on diplomacy. A miracle would be required to get the demonstration postponed indefinitely, which is the only imaginable relief that could be forthcoming for the diplomatic tension the atomic bomb has created.

Curiosity is potent, certainly more potent than anything which can be done to stifle it by those apprehensive of its results in the matter of exploding atomic bombs. There is an aspect of curiosity in the matter of atomic energy, moreover, that is going to assert itself even more strongly after the first series of demonstrations takes place.

They will seem to call for further tests to clear up questions raised by the first series of tests. It is absurd to suppose that those tests will be the beginning and the end of all atomic experimentation. One demonstration will lead naturally to another demonstration and so on until those who are responsible for the handling of atomic explosions feel they have all the evidence they need.

Each demonstration will be in the nature of a war game, regardless of what it is called. There will be no way to dissociate curiosity from diplomacy, just as there is no way to do so now. Atomic bombs are the most potent military force in existence. They would still be so even if the United States never caused another one to explode.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Background of Churchill-Stalin Debate.

WASHINGTON, March 26 — I promised a few days back to judge the points raised in the Churchill-Stalin debate which seemed to stop halfway with Mr. Churchill's humorous last rejoinder and Stalin's subsequent silence, and I will do it today.

The Churchill challenge, I believe, was raised primarily for diplomatic effect. I notice Stalin cooled considerably (if temporarily) on the warmest diplomatic subject then pending, Iran, soon after Churchill spoke. Moscow came down all the way from threatening open belligerency in the few ensuing days to a secret revolutionary movement in Iran and an open discussion about oil —discussion not being necessary if belligerency was to be consummated by a capture of that nation. The words of statesmen are generally selected for such effects.

Yet the points raised by both leaders contained sound observations which were not argued through to a conclusion when the effect was accomplished. Mr. Churchill recommended an Anglo-American alliance on the ground that the English speaking peoples had the same ideals. I think he incorrectly stated his point on this. The way of freedom for peoples has been preserved in the form — not of language — but of free parliamentary governments.

Way of Life

This method is not confined to any language. It is the elective way of life by which citizens of communities choose representatives to parliamen in free, secret balloting where all parties are given representation. In England, this is done through a parliament which operates by a somewhat different method than our congress. In France it is a chamber of deputies in a system more like ours, and so on. The natural assimilation of peoples of the world — indeed one which has already been made through common ideals —is this common acceptance of parliamentarianism.

Stalin wholly misinterpreted this underlying ground of the Churchill speech. He called it a Hitler move for war. The Hitler methods and all totalitarianism are odious to free peoples. You could see underlying Stalin's whole rejoinder the idea that liberty is only liberty against fascism, not freedom of people. Indeed, he has a Soviet and recently had an election but only one party was represented and it was recognized by all free people as a controlled popularity contest for his government. His Soviet does not represent parliamentarianism in form because it is a council of workers carefully chosen by one party and subject to the will of the one party master at the top.

Any ideological division of the world on this fundamental basis would put Stalin in league with the fascist nations, and parliamentary nations on the other side.

Not only that, but the whole system of action in Russia more nearly resembles the fascistic. The Stalin answer, for instance, was not a radioed speech to the people like Churchill's, but was presented as a series of selected questions made to him by his controlled newspaper, Pravda, together with his responses. (Contrast this with our free press conference methods common in one form or another in all parliamentary countries.)

Another Error

Again, Stalin attributed the spread of Communism to the yearnings of the people in European nations he has seized. The people were not consulted in Poland, Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia and elsewhere. Whatever yearnings they had for or against Communism were not presented to the world at large. Communistic influence did not grow in Europe from this method, but by seizure of governments or by instituting aggressive, political movements in such nations as France and Italy, where parliamentary forms prevailed. And in none of these parliamentary nations even yet has a majority favored Communism. Among the parliamentary countries, the Communists have their strongest representation in France where it was necessary for them to make a combination with the Socialists, their former hated rivals, in order to win even the status of a segment in a coalition control.

These are the points I would like to have seen Mr. Churchill pursue. They could be followed all the way through both speeches. If this had been done, the international atmosphere might have been cleared by the debate and a ground for the common understanding established. As I say, I think they stopped half-way.

THE CUSTOMERS TAKE A TRIMMING

In Pittsburgh last week the price of haircuts was increased to a dollar. And in Chicago, barbers warn they may shortly go to a dollar and a half.

Advance notice of a rise in the price of tonsorial services are made without worry, shaves and haircuts being items on which not even the most ingenious hoarder can devise a way of stocking up.

But a dollar and a half for a haircut? That, as many a hirsute and irate customer will inevitably point out, is shear robbery.

A dollar and a half for a haircut? Why, out west they'll shear a sheep for 20 cents.

Remember the days when the best barbershop quartets ended up every song with a "Shave-and-a-haricut . . two-bits?" What this country needs is not a five-cent cigar, but a quarter haircut.

If the price of barbering continues to rise, the government is going to have to start rationing soup-bowls.

With barbers charging a dollar and a half for haircuts and already talking of ear-to-ear pay, the bold-headed man is getting his first break since Minsky put in runways.

Indo-China Troubles Clearing

French and Chinese Come Nearer Understanding.

By STANLEY M. SWINTON

HANOI, INDO-CHINA, March 26 — After eight historic months, a resolution of Indo-China's problems seems finally in sight.

The road ahead remains rocky, but a foundation for a return to normalcy was built by the signature of two recent accords:

1. A Franco-Chinese treaty authorizing French relief to Chinese armies who are occupying Indo-China north of the 16th parallel under the Potsdam agreement.

2. A preliminary accord between France and Viet Nam recognizing Viet Nam as a free state within the Indo-Chinese federation.

Misunderstandings and new difficulties followed efforts to enforce both agreements.

When the French sought to disembark at Haiphong March 6 to carry out the relief they were greeted by a Chinese barrage which killed 40 and wounded 100. Later the French were permitted ashore, but were confined to two small Haiphong areas by Maj. Gen. Wang Lee-hwong, local Chinese commander, who denied knowledge of a Franco-Chinese agreement and consistently refused French cooperation.

The arrival from Chungking of Gen. Lu Ha, commander of Chinese forces in northern Indo-China with new instructions reportedly authorizing the French to proceed with the occupation, eased the situation.

Attitude Changes

First evidences of the changed attitude were seen in the overland movement of the 93rd army toward Canton. The U. S. mission at Haiphong is arranging the transfer of the 63rd army northwards in U. S. ships. Only the 53rd army is scheduled to remain in Indo-China and it theoretically is due to leave by March 31, although the French are pessimistic that the deadline will be met.

"The principle of relief has been admitted by Chungking," said Jean Saintony, French high commissioner from Tonkin. "The trouble was we want to go fast and the Chinese want to go slowly."

Even when the Chinese relief is accomplished, the French confront new political difficulties by Viet Nam.

The preliminary accord left the question of control of the Viet Nam foreign policy, the position of Viet Nam in the Indo-Chinese federation and Viet Nam's economic and cultural relations with France for later negotiation.

In an interview, Ho Chi Minh, Viet Nam president and Annamite nationalist leader, charged the French with stalling in inaugurating the final conversations which the treaty stated would begin "immediately." Ho said that the French had promised to fly the Viet Nam delegates by Paris as soon as the preliminary accord was signed.

Ho said his position with the Viet Namese people and the extremist elements had been compromised and that it was necessary that negotiations start as soon as possible to prove the good faith of the French and prevent the recurrence of armed opposition.

Public Demonstrations

The seriousness of the situation was emphasized by public demonstrations in Hanoi in which thousands of Viet Namese protested "French insincerity."

Actually, the difficulty seems more the result of misunderstanding than bad faith on either side. Saintony in an interview said that he was working under instructions from Paris and was unable to proceed without them. He said that France considers the term "immediately" to mean two or three weeks, and that he was unable to make Viet Nam understand that western diplomacy does not operate within a matter of hours.

There is no doubt that the preliminary accord has become increasingly unpopular with the Viet Namese, who feel that they have been duped and are willing to fight for complete independence.

The first concrete evidence of this can be seen in the coastal area between Longtrien and the Chinese border, where Guyen Hai Than, Viet Namese cabinet member, has established his own resistance movement. Travelers from the area say Guyen has 30,000 well armed men.

Ho Chi Minh admits that "provocateurs" have caused local trouble, but says that with a speedy French beginning of negotiations, local opposition easily could be controlled. Saintony also considers the problem a local one with no aspects of a national counter revolution.

Unexpected Trouble

The unexpected aspect of the Indo-Chinese situation has been a flare-up of resistance in Cochin China and Annam since the accord was signed. Ho Chi Minh blamed it on French refusal to provide him a plane to visit his Viet Namese supporters there and on French action in dropping leaflets telling the Viet Namese to give up their arms.

While these were factors, the important responsibility rests on the lack of communications for notifying the troops of the armistice, on the presence of a number of bandits who were using the Viet Nam banner for camouflage and new opportunities offered by withdrawal of French troops.

The best news in Indo-China is the easing of the famine situation in the vicinity of Tonkin. The Viet Nam government has been campaigning for farmers to raise maize and potatoes in addition to rice.

It is now estimated that starvation deaths will be less than last year's total of 2,000,000. Previously the 1946 famine was expected to be far worse than in 1945.

Mrs. Harriet Elizabeth Runyan, 93, stepdaughter of Eber Baker, founder of Marion, died at her home on East Center street.

Judge Grant E. Mouser, who had been mentioned as a possible candidate for judge of the Ohio supreme court, was indorsed for that office by the Marion County Bar association.

John McGrath, credited with having operated the first Marion Steam shovel, related his experiences and said the new excavating machine revolutioned road building. Mr. McGrath, at the time of the interview, was employed as custodian of the Knights of Columbus lodge rooms here.

Mrs. George F. Fetter, 63, died at her home on Elm street.

Nations, like individuals, must conform to God's law. II Chronicles 7:14: "If my people, who are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sins, and will heal their land."

Lippmann in Europe

Walter Lippman will travel abroad for the next five weeks, interviewing military men and leaders of public opinion in Europe. He expects to visit Paris, Nuremberg, Berlin, Warsaw, Prague and also to be in Italy and England before his return. His articles on this page will be discontinued until his return, probably the first week in May.

Lehman Vs. Anderson

By Raymond Moley

FIORELLO H. LA GUARDIA'S career as a working newspaperman is to be short and perhaps not too sweet. He is now to be head of the UNRRA. The retired mayor is a man of action. His words have always been the garlic mixed with the acts. Plenty of action is called for in the task which a greater administrator, Herbert Lehman, found well nigh impossible.

When Mr. Lehman was entrusted with the ungrateful task of directing UNRRA, his character and capacity were guarantees that the work would be well done. Throughout the war, in which he lost a son, Mr. Lehman exposed himself to every hardship in order to carry on the work of the organization. If UNRRA has endured criticism and revealed mistaken judgments, they can hardly be attributed to its director. Anyone who has had to deal with the competition which prevails between civilian and military authorities can appreciate the frictions that take place. Civilian authority never had the strength to penetrate the administrative net set up by the military. And UNRRA did not act for one, but for over 40 countries.

Lehman's Warning

Mr. Lehman has warned us for a long time that the food situation might become dangerous this spring. Few heeded his remarks, although the department of agriculture in October 1945, made exceedingly gloomy predictions.

A later report of the department, in February of this year, sharply dramatized the situation. At that time, Britain reduced some rations which had been increased after V-J Day. These facts alarmed President Truman.

Apparently, the President recalled that Herbert Hoover had predicted, two years ago, that the situation might become dangerous. He called a conference, which recommended the soft measure of releasing from five to seven million tons of grain for Europe. Mr. Hoover was asked to see to it that the shipping and distribution of that food be promptly carried out. Perhaps that is one reason why Mr. Lehman resigned. He had dramatized the situation months before, and he was now relieved of the duty of carrying out the distribution of the new food. But the President has certainly been slow to act, considering the warning of his own secretary of agriculture and of Mr. Lehman.

Mr. Lehman seems to be convinced that we should do more than the mild measure indicated up to now by Messrs. Truman and Hoover. His fear comes from the fact that he believes the food shortage will not end this year. Therefore, he favors the resumption of some of the rationing which we dropped after V-J Day.

Anderson Opposed

Clinton Anderson, secretary of agriculture is flatly opposed to this. His reasons appear to be that whatever we do now will be too late to have a decisive effect on famine in Europe and Asia. The danger period is in May and June, always called, in Germany, the "hunger months." Since olden times, the larders were, in these months, empty of last year's food, and the new crop starts to come in July. In late July, the new grains begin to flow into the market. So whatever we might pile up through new rationing measures would not get into Europe before the great need ends. We can give only what we have now.

Moreover, Mr. Anderson is expecting an improvement in southern Asia, because the crop reports are better than in the disastrous season of a year ago.

Another reason is not spoken about. The political effects of rationing in 1946 would be bad. Russia is able to send grain to France, and that suggests that next year's situation in Europe will be better. These facts would make it hard to offer a justification of rationing to the people of this country, especially when the President, while there was still time to act, neglected repeated warnings.

When Time Stands Still

By Truman Twill

One of the built-in features of the Twillery that would add $500 to its sale value in a normal real estate market ($1,500 under present "stabilized" conditions) is time that stands still.

This greatly-to-be-desired improvement enables the occupants to keep one eye on the clock without jumping up suddenly to announce, "It's late!" They never know how late it is because the clocks won't tell.

As far as clocks in the Twillery are concerned, it's impossible to be late. There are advantages to this which Wilson Wyatt may want to add to the federal housing program.

In the early morning when the world is jumping out of bed and rushing to its duties of making more hoot-nannies and widgets at inflated wage rates so we won't have inflation, things remain somnolent at the Twillery because it is 12:15 all the time for decent folk to be in bed.

Perhaps it is 6:15, also a pleasant time, a whole hour before anyone needs to get ready for school or to catch an 8:15 bus. At the end of the whole hour, moreover, it still is 6:15 because that is when a truck's vibration, a gremlin or a mouse staggering home after a night out has jolted the floor plug.

There are four Twillery clocks, all electric. Each has its own manner of creating the illusion that there is no hurry. Besides the one that can be unplugged, there is one that keeps on running but never gets anywhere. Set it to spread an alarm at 6:30 and it may put off that grandson's chore until the next day.

The living room clock hides its face and gives the impression of being one time when it is any other. An occupant reading "Forever Amber" and upbraiding himself for losing too much sleep over a dull historical review can look at the time and make 11:15 when he knows it must be 1:15.

The star performer is the kitchen clock. This is the one that makes time stand still where it counts. The plug that runs the clock is in the cupboard with the cereal boxes. When a hand touches the wire the current falters and the clock stands still. For example, at 7:45 the cereal is taken out for breakfast and the clock stops. One dish of cereal is consumed, and another one begins to grow on. Second and third cups of coffee are consumed. Also two pieces of toast, an orange, a hunk of cheese and a couple pieces of candy and a dish of prunes. It's still 7:45.

If the time comes to sell the Twillery for the times what it's worth, in the current real estate fashion, the Twillery's arrangements for time keeping time easily will be worth $1,500, while the four clocks thrown in at $250 apiece, the arrangement would be a steal at $2,500.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Fay A. Greene of the Sineltzer road are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Mildred, to John A. Colbert of Los Angeles, Calif. The single ring ceremony was read Feb. 26 at 7 o'clock in a chapel at Huntington Park, Calif., by Rev. Walter Pegg, pastor of a Baptist church of that city.

For her wedding, the bride chose an aqua blue gabardine suit with which she wore a white blouse and navy blue accessories. Her hat was a halo of imitation white flowers with a veil and her corsage was of two orchids and a gardenia. Her only attendant was Miss Ruth Shadix of Marion. She was attired in a gold suit with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias and roses.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Albert Larimore of South Gate, Calif.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride in Maywood, Calif. When the couple left on a wedding trip, Mrs. Colbert was wearing a black costume suit with matching accessories. The couple are making their home at 4420 East 54th street in Maywood, Calif.

Mrs. Colbert, before her marriage, was employed at the F. W. Fitch Co. in Los Angeles. Mr. Colbert was recently discharged from the service and was a chief machinist's mate at the time.

When the Jolly Hour club met with Mrs. Stella Lee on Uncapher avenue Friday evening, final arrangements were made for a dinner at Ringers' inn April 23 in honor of charter members. First prizes in games went to Mrs. Hattie Titus; second, Mrs. Ena Sharp; and third to Mrs. Marguerite Luke. Mrs. Gaylo Ford of Los Angeles, Calif., was a guest. 19th Anniversary Observed Here by D. of I. Circle

A BANQUET preceded initiation ceremonies in which a class of candidates was initiated when members of Our Lady of Victory Circle No. 388, Daughters of Isabella, observed the 19th anniversary of their organization, at Hotel Harding last night. Covers were placed for more than 130 members and guests.

For the banquet, at which Miss Geneva Kruskamp, a past regent, presided as toastmaster, the table centerpiece was an arrangement of vari-colored sweet peas, and crystal candelabra entwined with greenery, held tall lighted tapers in varied colors. Favors were candy bars, fashioned as flower boxes and holding sweet peas in pastel colors. Completing the decorations in the room was a large bouquet of white spring flowers.

Music for the program was by pupils of St. Mary Parochial school. A chorus composed of Josephine Coffey, Margaret Armbruster, Donna Mae Lawler, Anna Klaus, Betty Ann Napier, Marjorie Simmons, Joyce Burns, Rosemary Dunn, Margaret Cooper and Olga Lowinger, sang "We're the Daughters of Isabella," and the D. of I state song, "Ohio's Best," Jane Baldauf played a piano solo, "The Bohemian Girl," Friml, and vocal numbers included "By the Bend of the River," by Betty Ann Napier, Brahm's "Lullaby," and "The Rose of Tralee," by Billy Wagner. "Florian's Song," by Margaret Armbruster and "The Last Rose of Summer," by Margaret Cooper. Mrs. John L. Case played the piano accompaniments for Billy Wagner, and Jane Baldauf accompanied the chorus and soloists.

In welcoming the candidates Mrs. Edith Cooper, regent, told of the spiritual and fraternal advantages to be found in membership in the Daughters of Isabella. Emphasizing the spirit of unity, which she said, "is one of the cardinal virtues of our circle, she expressed the hope that their membership would be an association of happiness, and strengthen their faith and charities.

Speaker for the program was Rev. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary Catholic church and chaplain of the circle. He emphasized the importance of participation in the activities of the circle, and charged the members and candidates to live up to their motto, "Unity." Stressing charity as a greatly needed virtue in the world today he pointed to the growth of racial and class hatred now prevalent. Designating hatred as a "fundamental monstrosity" he challenged the members to use their faith and the precepts of their organization in overcoming this and other evils now going on in the world today. Joseph Dunn, grand knight of Marion Council No. 671, Knights of Columbus, in an informal talk, expressed the appreciation of the council for the cooperation of the circle and told the candidates that the benefits and pleasure they will derive from membership in the organization, will depend wholly upon the effort and cooperation they themselves put into the work.

In closing the program Miss Kruskamp introduced the officers of the circle. Guests were Rev. Spickerman, Rev. James Carroll, assistant pastor of St. Mary church, Mr. Dunn, Miss Edna Dutton, and a group of 14 members of the Mansfield circle.

More than 50 candidates were initiated in the ceremony which followed the banquet and program. The local degree staff, under the direction of Mrs. Cooper, regent, conferred the initiatory work and music was by the circle's chorus.

WATER TANK

already have been made with the Ohio Associated Telephone company for a leased line from the tank to the pumping station.

Rust Protection

Another feature to be installed after the initial test is a cathodic rust protection device which will prevent formation of rust on the interior of the tank. The structure will be painted with aluminum paint.

Workman began today to tear down the old standpipe, which has stood as a landmark in Marion since 1890. The standpipe is located on the highest elevation in Marion and can be seen several miles from the city. For many years it has been a problem to city police because of the children who have climbed to its top.

Before starting work on the new tank, the water company received permission from all property owners in the neighborhood, Mr. Porter said. He added that installation of the tank is one of the many features planned by the water company to make Marion's water system one of the best in the country.

jority was opposed to accepting the offer.

Lausche added that Salby started to take an actual count but said he was unable to complete it because of commotion.

"This new proposal of the company was communicated to and turned down by yourself, the president and field representatives of the union."

The governor telegraphed Downard, "In my opinion, the difference which separates you is so negligible that I do not believe that good judgment is being exercised in suffering the further economic loss that results from this work stoppage."

The governor sent the telegram after conferring with four employes who urged him to use his office to effect a settlement of the strike.

The four were Frank Robinson, 26, a war veteran who lost a leg in Italy; Warren L. Zinn, 25, another war veteran; W. R. Christopher, and Treasurer Staufken.

ATOMIC ENERGY

plant thus turning out atomic power might at the same time be making bombs as a by-product.

Most scientists previously have indicated that the greatest stumbling block in the path of industrial use is the difficulty in controlling the explosive force of the chain reaction set up.

Acheson did not get to complete any explanation he may have intended to make at yesterday's session, for he was called to a White House conference while senators still were interrogating him.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn), who would not comment in any way on the reported disclosures, said Acheson will be called back next week.

Acheson gave the committee a report from a special committee of scientists, headed by TVA Chairman David E. Lilianthal. The undersecretary said a state department committee he heads endorses the proposals.

License Plan Urged

Members said that, summed up, the report called for establishment under the United Nations Organization of an authority which would license plants to produce atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

The plan reportedly called for the UNO authority to control the production of uranium and thorium, both fissionable ores. This control would be preceded by a worldwide inventory of mined and unmined supplies.

Like those in any other country, plants in the United States also would have to be licensed.

The UNO commission would be authorized, under the plan, to conduct minute inspections of the licensed plants.

One committee member said it was suggested that all A-bombs manufactured by the United States be turned over to the UNO commission. He said he had not yet been able to learn—but intends to find out—whether the bombs themselves would remain in the United States.

Senator Calls For Full Civil Rule of Atomic Energy

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 26—Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.), newly appointed by President Truman as a member of a civilian commission to study the results of the Bikini atom bomb tests, says he believes in complete civilian control of atomic energy, but suggests scientists can take "good advice" from the military.

Saltonstall, a member of the senate naval committee, was one of four legislators named to sit with five scientists on the President's personal committee for study of the "Operation Crossroads" project. The appointment was announced a few hours before Saltonstall spoke last night at the Middle West and Middle Atlantic Regional conference of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs.

Urges Civil Control

Declaring that people come to see him every day, insisting on civilian control of atomic power, the Massachusetts senator said:

"I thoroughly believe that it should be completely in control of civilians. As a friend and an admirer of President Conant of Harvard, I completely endorse the theory of freedom of scientific research but it never hurt a scientist any more than it does a politician to receive good advice.

"And if the armed forces are in a position to give good advice to a civilian commission and to the President of the United States—a civilian—it can only help us make the best use of this tremendous power for peace and for security from aggression," he continued. "I hope and pray that we will never use atomic energy ourselves as aggressors."

The senator said Russia and the United States "have got to continue to live and work together."

Sees Similar Aims

Saltonstall said that while the United States' naval experts insist on Pacific bases stretching to Okinawa and Atlantic bases in Newfoundland and Bermuda, Russia likewise wants the Kuriles, a realignment of the Turkish border, free access to Iran and security of access through the Dardanelles to the Aegean sea.

The conference also heard Rep. Francis P. Bolton (R-O.) and Mrs. Glenn Suthers of Chicago, federation president, make appeals for greater participation of women in politics, and for a Republican program appealing particularly to young people.

STRIKE

but the police would permit no loitering.

24,000 Employes

Monaghan said earlier he would summon the state police, who had assembled at nearby Greensburg, only in case of a disturbance or "threat of disturbance" in the 72-day-old strike. The plant employs 24,000 workers.

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, state police commissioner, said in Harrisburg that "a detail of state police is cooperating with Allegheny county authorities to preserve order.

At least 150 supervisory employes had pressed through limited picket lines without incident beyond jeers and catcalls from the crowd lining Braddock avenue at the main plant gates. But as the crowd grew larger and more supervisory workers appeared, the situation grew tense.

Crowd Gets Angry

Pickets circling in two lines, limited to 10 each by a court injunction against mass picketing, first made no attempt to halt the supervisors beyond seeking to dissuade them by talking.

However, the crowd grew angrier. Taunts were shouted. Several onlookers burst from the curbstones into the street and were herded back by deputies headed by Monaghan.

Finally, a few of the supervisors were jostled roughly as they passed through the crowd. The force of 60 deputies found it increasingly difficult to control the onlookers.

The East Pitsburgh works, employing 24,000, is the largest plant affected by the current strike of 75,000 CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers at Westinghouse plants, now in its 72nd day.

The union has demanded an 18½ cents hourly "across the board" raise in wages.

Alerted Last Week

State police were ordered alerted by Governor Edward Martin last week when a crowd of more than 2,000 prevented supervisors from entering.

Sheriff Monaghan called for the state police this morning after the company informed him they would want 700 to 1,000 supervisors to pass through the lines, according to the sheriff's solicitor, John M. Bash. He explained that Monaghan "thought the best thing to do was to bring uniformed men in and the crowd would pay more attention to them."

COURT VISITS SCENE OF JAP EXECUTIONS

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, March 26—The remains of two Doolittle fliers who died in a crash at sea were brought here today as an American military trial commission visited a desolate cemetery where three others were executed by Japanese.

The five-colonel commission, which is trying four Japanese officers for executing the three Doolittle airmen, stood solemnly in the bleak countryside as the firing squad deaths were described in gruesome detail.

A defense attorney, Lt. Tadashiro Hayama, former legal director of the Japanese 13th army, pointed out where the Americans were tied to white crosses and shot on Oct. 15, 1942.

Earlier the commission visited the Kiangwan prison cells where the airmen had been held and had scratched their names and dates on the wooden prison floor.

The bodies of the two airmen who were killed in the crash were identified by another Doolittle flier, Capt. Chas. J. Nielsen of Hyrum, Utah. He is the sole survivor of a B-25 which crashed into the sea off the China coast after the Tokyo raid in April, 1942.

An Army graves registration team located the graves of the two—identified as Sgt. Donald Edgar Fitzmaurice, engineer gunner, and Sgt. William J. Dieter, bombardier—on instructions from Neilsen.

The plane was piloted by Lt. Dean Hallmark of Dallas, one of the three executed by the Japanese.

Nielsen said Fitzmaurice and Dieter, whose hometowns were not available here, were fatally injured in the crash. Their bodies, supported by life jackets, were washed ashore the night of April 18, 1942, and were buried by Hallmark and Nielsen.

Dismissal Denied

Before the commission visited the execution site, the prosecution rested and the defense moved for the dismissal of all charges against three defendents and for dismissal of one specification against the fourth. All motions were denied and a recess was granted until Saturday.

The prosecution concluded its case with the reading of President Roosevelt's promise that the United States would hold personally responsible for the execution of the three airmen every Japanese official involved.

MILLIGAN GIVES TALK AT UPPER SANDUSKY

Speaks for Veterans on Rotary Civic Night Program.

Local communities were urged to take full advantage of the legislation authorizing county veterans' service officers by Fred J. Milligan in a speech last night at Upper Sandusky. Mr. Milligan spoke before the Rotary club whose members were observing Civic night. The meeting was held at the Bow and Arrow and guests were members of the town council.

Milligan, 39, a native of Upper Sandusky and a veteran of more than three years' service with the Army Air Forces, said:

"In every Ohio county there are hundreds of returning veterans who need the assistance of a 'veteran's service officer.' Only 44, or one-half of the counties are reported to have designated such an officer despite legislative action last year authorizing it. With one-half million Ohio veterans home, or soon to be home, here is a method by which every county may aid in their readjustment."

Milligan, the only World War II veteran who is a candidate for state office on the Republican ticket, is seeking the nomination for lieutenant governor at the May primaries. He is a former assistant attorney general of Ohio, assistant dean of men at Ohio State university and past president of the League of Young Republican clubs of Ohio.
